

AAA ANNOUNCES 4-YEAR COTTON CONTROL PROGRAM TO REDUCE CROPS, IMPROVE SHARE-CROPPERS' LOT

Immediate Increase In Aerial Defenses Ordered by London

Four Anti-Aircraft Divisions All Larger Than Infantry Brigade, Formed To Protect City From Possible Bombardment.

MOVES FOR PEACE
LEFT TO M. LAVAL

Sir Samuel Hoare, Ordered to Switzerland by Doctor, May Hold Secret Meets in Hideout.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Great Britain, in a tense atmosphere of European sanctions and what they may mean, stiffened her capital defenses against possible air attack tonight.

Immediate reorganization of anti-aircraft defenses in the London area was announced. An entire division of four anti-aircraft groups was formed and charged with the defense of the city against any assault from the sky.

Each of the four groups within the division is larger than an infantry brigade. Each will have headquarters where it can best co-operate with the royal air force, which itself was expanded recently.

The move followed upon today's three-hour meeting of the cabinet—a session which brought widespread predictions that it shortly will be added to the long list of economic measures the League of Nations has taken against Italy.

The ministers struggled with complex international issues, including the threatening question of oil, and domestic matters, on the eve of the opening of parliament. They adjourned without announcing their decisions.

It is most unlikely, it was said in authoritative circles, that there will be any developments for peace before a meeting December 12 of a League committee of 15 to consider an oil embargo against warring Italy.

400,000 AFRICANS EXPECTED TO OPEN OFFENSIVE TODAY

Emperor Selassie To Join Forces With Seyoum; Ras Kassa at Front and Launch Push.

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Ethiopia will shortly hurl an army of 400,000 warriors against Italians entrenched in the north, it was indicated today.

Unofficial reports said the first major offensive may take place at dawn tomorrow.

Tribesmen are known to be rallying for a northern drive, now that Emperor Haile Selassie has established a general military headquarters at Dessie.

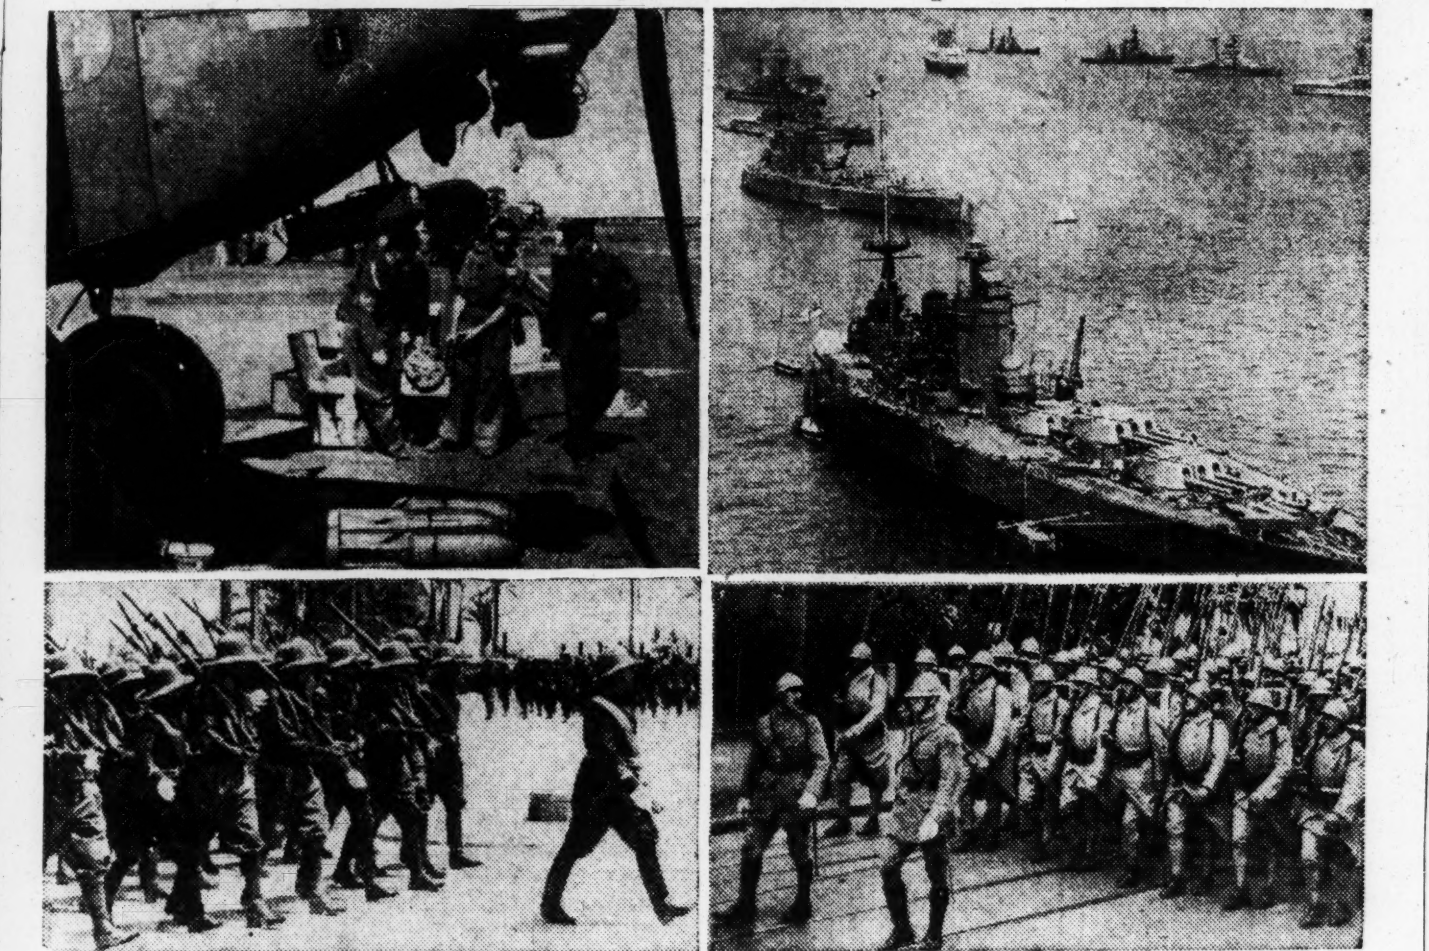

The negus, it was said, is believed to be preparing to go northward to meet his chief lieutenants in that area, Ras Seyoum and Ras Kassa. Their combined forces will then take the offensive, it was said.

Belief was expressed here that since tomorrow is the monthly day of the patron saint, Saint George, the Ethiopians may choose this time to attack.

The armies of Seyoum and Kassa were said to be in connection at Amba Alji, south of Makale, and Ras Muligeta is believed to have reached there with reinforcements.

Another Ethiopian army, this one of 20,000 men, is believed to be moving toward the front from the south.

British and French War Strength Mobilizes Against Threats of Il Duce

If war comes the two great allied nations of Europe are ready to hurl their land, sea and air forces against the best Italy has to offer. (Upper left) Italian bombing planes would probably be the first to go into action against Britain's Mediterranean fleet; (upper right) if Britain persists in invoking oil sanctions, according to Il Duce's warning. COUNCIL CLASHES ON MERGER PLAN

Proposal Returned to Commission for More Study After Debate.

Featured by clashes between Mayor Key and Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon on the one side and Councilman John A. White on the other, city council yesterday expended about two hours on a heated argument over the seven-point Atlanta-Fulton county merger proposal and finally sent it back to the consolidation commission, from which it originated, for further study.

The action was taken after council had appended two amendments, as follows:

1. To submit the merger proposal to Fulton county commissioners for their approval before seeking a county-wide referendum. This was opposed by White.
2. To allow all voters in DeKalb county to vote on the consolidation program, although proponents argued that only a small portion of the county, those living inside the city limits of Atlanta, would be affected.

A third proposal, offered by White, was sent to the commission along with the merger measures. It asks consideration of a move to limit the payment of taxes by Atlantans to the Fulton county government.

Key was invited to speak on the merger request, before council sided definitively and final action on the measure, and after Councilman Alvin L. Richards, one of the originators of the consolidation, had warned council a vote against the request for the referendum "whatever reason cannot be explained to the voters of Atlanta and Fulton counties."

Cold Weather Records in Danger, With Drop to 22 Seen for Today

Cold weather records for the year would travel as far as the citrus belt. Pensacola yesterday registered a low figure of 37 degrees, and Miami's low for the day was 54 degrees. Lower figures are in sight for both ends of Florida this morning.

Canada's gift of shivers spread itself generously, broadening out over the Mississippi valley as it traveled southward. In spite of the record temperatures it brought into the south, however, no excessive temperatures are being recorded in the northern states.

Throughout Georgia, the cold is prevalent. Albany and Thomasville turned in marks of 35 degrees yesterday; Macon, 30; Augusta, 32; and Savannah, 42. Lower marks than these are on the calendar for all points today, but as in Atlanta the cold will begin its gradual lift during the day.

GEORGIA REVENUES SHOW HUGE GAIN

Total Nears All-Time Record; $2,500,000 Is Needed in December.

An increase in the revenues of the state of Georgia for the first 11 months of 1935 over the same period of last year was recorded as $2,427,811.72 in a report filed yesterday by Governor Talmadge by State Auditor Tom Wisdom.

The state faces the necessity of raising more than $2,500,000 during the month of December to meet the general appropriations for the entire year, which amount to $10,128,186. This must be paid out of the general funds.

General Fund Up.
Total general fund collections so far this year amount to $7,485,473.17, with the allocated fund collections totaling $17,422,320.25.

General fund collections during December last year were approximately $2,400,000, according to the annual report of the comptroller general's office. The report filed yesterday showed increases both in the general and allocated funds for the first 11 months of this year over the same period of last year.

Plan Seeks To Slash '36-'39 Production Below '35 Figure

OVER-REDUCTION RESULT IS FEARED BY COTTON TRADE

Growing Consumption Gives Rise To Belief Nation Has Market for 2 Million Additional Bales

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 2.—(UP)—The cotton trade feared tonight that the government's new adjustment program might lead to an over-reduction of the American crop.

With consumption increasing, due chiefly to a boom in foreign exports, some observers believed the United States have a market for 2,000,000 more bales of cotton than it produces this season, and will have to dig into the dwindling surplus, which was 9,000,000 bales at the beginning of the season, August 1.

It was agreed, however, that the AAA program for 1936 will be a boon to a million sharecroppers, who will get 25 per cent of the benefit payments in 1936, whereas they have been getting practically nothing.

Most traders expected the new program to have a bullish effect on the market.

1936 Reduction.
The AAA will require farmers to reduce acreage a minimum of 30 per cent in 1936, and a maximum of 45 per cent. The reduction this year was

AUDITORS SEE CUT IN COUNTY DEFICIT

Fulton Board Again Sets $6,000 Salaries for Five Heads of Departments.

Fulton county's $325,000 deficit will be reduced slightly this year, an auditor's report to the county commission yesterday revealed.

The report was made as the commissioners fixed the salaries of department heads for 1936 at $6,000 per year, the same amounts which were paid in 1935.

Responding to requests, county auditors, told the commissioners the deficit will be cut to approximately $317,000 at the end of the year, and the county will be able to live within its budget for the remainder of 1935.

Two-Year Adjustment Proposal Also Outlined for Corn-Hog Growers, Designed To Increase Swine Output in 1936.

5 MAJOR CHANGES
IN NEW CONTRACTS

Agreements Projected Despite Impending High Court Decision on Farm Act Constitutionality.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The AAA offered the nation's cotton growers a four-year adjustment contract tonight, aimed at crop reduction and at bettering the lot of sharecroppers and some tenant farmers through increased payments for them.

Pointed toward a 11,000,000 to 12,000,000-bale production in 1936, the 1936-39 contracts call for a 5 to 10 per cent greater crop reduction than in 1935, with a 1,000,000-acre reduction in base acreage.

A few hours earlier, the farm administration had made public details of a two-year adjustment program for corn-hog producers intended to increase next year's hog production by 30 per cent.

Both long-range control agreements were projected in the face of the impending supreme court decision on AAA's constitutionality. Four-year contracts also have been prepared for wheat, tobacco and rye producers.

High administration quarters have indicated some way would be sought to continue production control in these major crops even should the high tribunal hold processing taxes invalid. Benefit payments to farmers are financed through these taxes.

The major changes in the new cotton contracts:

1. They cover four years instead of one.
2. National base acreage is reduced from 45,500,000 to 45,000,000 acres.
3. The reduced production for 1936 must be 30 to 45 per cent of the base, compared with 25 to 35 per cent in 1935.
4. Benefits equal 20 to 25 cents a pound, or $8.60 an acre, will be paid in one check for the reductions. Three

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 2. According to the latest estimates of experts, the next world war, having already been postponed several times on account of wet protests and heavy downpour of ultimatums, will positively begin on December 12, which would seem to give us only a little more than a week to do the early Christmas shopping and remove the women and children to a place of safety.

LESS DEATHS ARE LAID TO SAFETY CAMPAIGNS

U. S. Accident Fatalities 179 Lower Than Same Period Year Ago.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The safety campaigns of scores of American newspapers and civic bodies has begun to show results in a lowered national automobile death toll. It was indicated tonight in a Commerce Department report showing that traffic deaths in 36 principal cities for the first 47 weeks of 1935 were 179 less than for the similar 1934 period.

Between January 1 and November 23 a total of 7,729 persons lost their lives amid the wreckage of automobiles, the report showed. In the same period last year fatalities amounted to 7,908.

The record for the week ending November 23 was 219 deaths, compared with 244 the previous week.

The marked reduction in deaths over the 47-week period, however, indicated a definite improvement in safe driving, apparently resulting from the new responsibility instilled in motorists who have signed newspaper safety pledges and have been sobered by the gruesome details of accidents which they formerly did not notice.

LA-GA. RAIL RATES ARE ORDERED SLASHED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company, of Kentucky, today won its fight for lower freight rates on carload shipments of petroleum from the New Orleans-Baton Rouge and Shreveport-El Dorado areas to certain points in Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia.

The interstate commerce commission ordered carriers serving certain non-key points in those states to reduce rates by next February 28. The Standard Company contended the present rates were unreasonable.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS DELUGE CITY AND SUBURBS

Wrigley Reporters Extend Their Activities Into Near-By Cities.

BY MISS MINT (The Wrigley Representative)

Are you one of those who couldn't believe it to be true?—Mr. Spear and I and our assistants actually will pay you a crisp, new dollar bill for your opinion of Wrigley's Double Mint. It's good fun, indeed, passing out the dollars and now there aren't so many skeptical folks. I met a smiling mother who was taking a bar of chocolate home to the children. Just as she emerged from the store where she had bought it. Wasn't she disappointed as she told me the clerk had urged her to buy a package of Wrigley's, but she didn't, and two minutes later she had her chance to earn a dollar and lost it. How about you?

LIKES PEPPERMINT.

W. G. BIGGERS, 426 Fifth St., was down town shopping with his wife, when he was stopped by one of the many Mr. Spears. He produced an open package of Wrigley's Double Mint, said he likes the rich, full peppermint flavor, and was rewarded with a crackly dollar bill.

MISS ALMA BEAN, 830 W. Peachtree street, who has been working of switchboard operator for an automobile company, but she found time to say: "I use Wrigley's Spearmint every day and I surely do like it." I left her with a broad smile and a brand new dollar bill.

Time and space doesn't permit me to list the names of ALL the men, women, and children who have earned crisp, new dollar bills after producing a package of Wrigley's and giving an opinion of Wrigley's gum, but here are a few:

MRS. S. R. YOUNG, 585 St. Charles Ave.; VIRGIL J. ZERLEY, 454 Fourteenth St. N. W.; E. E. LACKNEY, 419 Ponce de Leon Ave.; WILLIS PATLICK, 227 N. W. 10th St.; MISS MARY JONES, 320 Madison Ave.; A. C. DOLLARS FOR MARIETTA.

And here are just a few people of Marietta who are a dollar richer because they use Wrigley's Gum: MRS. D. F. GUNTER, 227 Rosell St.; M. C. FREY, 201 Alexander St.; R. A. WHEELER, ALICE DOBBS, 300 Bridge St.; R. R. HARGIS, 210 Atlanta St.; HOWARD GENTRY, 507 Lawrence St.; ODENE LANE, 111 Sessions St.; MISS FRANCES COUCHE, 106 Forrest Ave.; MRS. S. G. We may stop you on the street, call on you at your home, or in your office or factory, at any moment. Always be ready—with an open package of Wrigley's Double Mint, Spearmint, Juicy Fruit, or P. Burglar, Pickpocket Work Edgewood Shop

A sandwich shop at 56 Edgewood avenue, N. E., yesterday contributed its share to police reports with a burglar and a pickpocket "working" the place at different times during the day.

Shortly before 6 o'clock in the morning, R. C. Robinson, of East Point, saw a negro enter the place after breaking out a glass window. Robinson gave his gun to M. H. Cooper, of 1070 Saunders avenue, with the instructions to hold the negro in the place while he called police. When the negro came out, Cooper shot at him three times after his orders to halt were disregarded. He said he did not know whether or not he hit the burglar, who dropped several packages of cigars in his escape.

The pickpocket staged his operation in the sandwich shop yesterday afternoon when he took a pocketbook containing $25 from R. F. Garvin, who gave him $15.50 in his report to police as 1515 Hurt building. Garvin said he was invited in the shop by a swarthy man and believes his money was taken by him.

3 THEFTS REPORTED ON CAMPUS AT EMORY

A burglar invaded the Emory University campus early yesterday morning and escaped with $125 in cash and a quantity of clothing.

Mrs. E. A. Drake, house mother of the Sigma Chi fraternity at No. 1 Fraternity row, reported that the thief took three pocketbooks containing $125 from her bureau drawer. The intruder rifled two of the purses while in the room and took the third, containing $85, with him.

Dr. H. E. Hauck lost two fraternity pins and clothing, valued at $100, when the thief entered the internecine quarters at the Emory University hospital.

A quantity of clothing belonging to students was stolen from the office of J. M. McCord, athletic director of the University, in Winship hall. The burglar entered through a window for each theft.

Returning to his home on Fayetteville road after an absence of several days, O. N. Mann found that the house had been ransacked after an intruder had entered the home by forcing the front door. He was not able to supply police with a list of articles stolen.

ARMY PLANES HERE 30 Refuel En Route to Florida Maneuvers.

Thirty low-wing Boeing planes, army air corps pursuit ships, landed at Selfridge field early yesterday, refueled and left for air maneuvers at Miami, Fla. They flew here from Selfridge field, Mich.

Commanded by Major Warren A. Maxwell, the first flight of the squadron arrived at 6:30 o'clock, taking off 30 minutes later. Three other flights arrived at intervals of 20 minutes. All were reported to have landed safely in Miami by noon yesterday. They were among the 41 army or navy planes which landed at the Atlanta airport during the day.

The squadron left its home station in Michigan Sunday afternoon, spending the night in Louisville, Ky. It will join other attack, pursuit, observation and bombardment squadrons from March Field, Cal., Langley Field, Va., and Shreveport, La., for air maneuvers, which will last through December 15.

MCDONALD, WILHOIT TAKE OATH OF OFFICE

Chairman and Augustan Begin New Six-Year Terms on Utilities Board.

Walter R. McDonald, blind Augusta lawyer, who was ousted from the Public Service Commission in July, 1933, by Governor Talmadge, yesterday assumed his old post for a six-year term, McDonald having defeated J. B. (Toby) Daniel, of LaGrange, who was appointed to his post by Governor Talmadge.

Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit, of the commission, also began a new six-year term yesterday.

The oaths of office were administered by Governor Talmadge, who ousted McDonald following a long investigation into the affairs of the old Public Service Commission. McDonald defeated Daniel in the 1934 primary despite the fact the LaGrange primary obtained a higher popular vote. Mr. Daniel, who has been seriously ill for several months, was not at the capitol yesterday and his desk and records were turned over to Mr. McDonald by Chairman Wilhoit.

The Governor greeted the Augustan candidly when he called to receive his oath of office.

"Come in, Walter," he said. "I'm glad to see you."

"I'm glad to be here, Governor," the attorney replied. "I think I'll make you a more satisfactory commissioner this time."

"I know you will," Talmadge assured him.

Chairman Wilhoit, also an appointee of the Governor, was opposed for re-election by James A. Perry, of Lawrenceville, his predecessor in office. He was re-elected by a large unit and popular vote.

"I'm still in complete accord with the Governor on freight and public utility rates," Chairman Wilhoit said. "I intend to carry on my duties in the future, during a term for which I was elected, with the same aims in view that I had when I was serving under the Governor's appointment."

payments formerly were made on two bases, totaling 4 3/4 cents a pound.

5. Share croppers will receive 25 per cent of the payment instead of the 15 per cent they now get; non-managing share-tenants 50 per cent instead of 22 1/2 per cent, and managing share-tenants 50 per cent instead of 57 1/2 per cent.

Share Croppers Defined.

The AAA explained that share-croppers are those who furnish labor only and share a half-interest in the crop with landlords; non-managing tenants are those who furnish work stock and equipment but not production supervision; while managing tenants are those who supervise production as well as provide stock and equipment.

In addition, their share of adjustment checks will be paid directly to tenants "in normal cases," the AAA explaining this provision "may operate for the protection of both landlord and tenant."

The AAA's announcement said that despite a reduction of 8,500,000 bales through the "plow-up" campaign and current reduction programs, the world carry-over of American cotton last August 1 was around 9,000,000 bales—3,000,000 bales larger than the average annual carryover in the 10-year period ending in 1932-33, but 4,000,000 bales less than the record 13,000,000 bales carryover in 1932.

"We have taken into account the unique position which cotton holds in our national life," said Administrator Chester A. Davis in announcing the contracts. "Our primary concern is the welfare of the producer. We believe that while benefitting him primarily, the program will also be of great benefit to the south and the community as a whole."

"We feel also that we have in the last three years passed well beyond the emergency which necessitated the plow-up campaign in 1933. Our policy consequently aims at the adjustment of the supply of cotton through, as the agricultural adjustment act expresses it, a 'gradual correction of the present inequalities.'"

The 1935 cotton program was designed for a crop of 11,500,000 bales. The last official crop estimate placed production at 11,141,000 bales. A considerably larger crop had been expected before adverse weather hit some sections of the belt, and officials indicated privately they would prefer to see a crop close to 11,000,000 bales in 1935.

This year 14,000,000 acres were taken out of cotton production. The estimated cost of 1935 benefit payments was $125,000,000. In 1934, 14,550,000 acres were taken out of production at a cost of $111,500,000, and in 1933, $112,550,000 was spent to take 10,000,000 acres out of production.

Officials declined to estimate either the number of acres which might be retired next year, or the probable cost of the program.

A smaller crop would be desired, some officials said, to enable a further reduction in the cotton surplus. Estimates have been made that the domestic consumption for this crop season would be about 6,000,000 bales, and that exports would be about the same figure, as increase of more than 1,000,000 bales over 1934 exports.

Such consumption requirements, it was said, probably would mean a market for part of the 4,450,000 bales controlled by government 12-cent loans made last year. A relatively small crop in 1936, with sustained prices, probably would provide a further market for the loan cotton.

The reduction of 1,000,000 acres in the cotton base, an official explained, was obtained through eliminating errors in calculations, and through removal of some land which should not have been included in the base.

The division of payments between landlords and tenants in 1936 will be made as follows: 37 1/2 per cent will go to the person furnishing the land, 12 1/2 per cent to the person furnishing work, stock and equipment and the remaining 50 per cent will be divided in the same proportion as the cotton or proceeds from its sale are divided.

The payment changes were said to have followed recommendations made in a study of the question by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Previous contracts were drawn hurriedly without the aid of precedents, an official said, and arbitrary divisions were set up. After the study, it was decided that the tenant should receive a larger share. Cotton landlords who conferred with AAA officials here several weeks ago were said to have agreed upon the changes for 1936.

Classifications Differ.

Formerly, classification of tenants has varied in different areas, but there will be no variance under the new contract. The new percentages for payment were based on a division of three-fourths of the cotton to the share tenant and one-half to the share-cropper.

Benefit payments are to be made directly to both tenant and share cropper, but a joint payee may be designated by either tenant or landlord.

Each contract signer must name a beneficiary to receive the payment in the event of his death, disappearance or incompetency.

The signers must agree in so far as is "economically practicable" to keep the present number of tenants and to allow them the same percentage of land.

Signers must agree not to increase the acreage planted for sale of peanuts, tobacco or rice beyond the acreage of these crops on their farm in 1934 or 1935, whichever is larger.

The acres taken out of cotton production may be used for production of food and seed for consumption on the farm.

The AAA will allot the national acreage among the states on a basis corresponding to each state's base in 1935. Allotments will be made to counties but an acreage equal to 1 per cent of a state's allotment will be held for apportionment by the state cotton board for adjustments to correct possible inequities.

Adjustment payments are to be made as soon as compliance with the contracts has been determined. Officials will begin checking compliance as soon as planting has been concluded in any county.

Base May Be Selected.

The contracts provide that the states may select one of five base periods in making allotments to counties and individuals. The years for the base periods are: 1929-32 inclusive; 1931-33 inclusive; 1932-34 inclusive; 1933-35 inclusive and 1935.

The original base period was 1929-32. The change was said to have been made to correct inequities in regions where unfavorable weather had reduced yield and acreage below normal during the original base period.

A state, however, must select one of the five possible bases to apply to all counties within the state.

All land operated by a contract signer must be covered by the contract. Persons eligible to sign the new contracts include an owner operating his own farm; a tenant operating a farm rented by him for cash or for a fixed commodity payment; an operator of a farm being purchased by him for cash or a fixed commodity payment; a share tenant operating an entire farm on a crop share lease or agreement. A farm, to be placed under contract, must have a base cotton acreage of at least one acre.

"REACTIONARIES" HIT BY SEC-WALLACE

DES MOINES, Iowa, Dec. 2.—(AP) Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace tonight outlined his "balanced production" formula and assailed "reactionaries and hell-raising boys who claim to represent the views of left wing farmers."

Wallace, who returned to his home town to speak at a public forum, said the "balance" he had attained between farm and city production.

"Some device must be found," he said, "to get the city people to producing more abundantly so as to make it possible for the farmer to produce more, not of the export farm products, but more of the high quality, expensive foods which soak up either more labor or increased acreage, or both."

"The guiding principle for general welfare," he said, "defending AAA production control, should be an increased balance of production of those things which we really need and want at a price low enough to pass such increased balanced production into consumption."

Wallace said farm income had increased from five billion three million dollars in 1932 to slightly more than eight billion, a gain of 53 per cent.

Farmers will continue to enjoy a fairer share of the national income if they will stand together as most of them have during the past two and a half years," he said.

"The outcry of professional farm agitators who seek to lead the farmers away from what has been proven an effective program are pitched on the same key as the cries of those reactionaries who have always been the farmers' enemies."

He attacked reactionaries for "fooling the farmers into high tariffs" and left wings for their "cost of production" demands.

EDUCATION PROBLEMS TO BE MEETING TOPIC

Discussion of some of the practical problems of education in the south and immediate problems to be undertaken by the Southern University conference are scheduled for the first annual one-day meeting of the group at Louisville, Ky., Friday, J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott College and secretary of the organization, said yesterday.

It is expected that a constitution and by-laws will be adopted and that permanent officers will be chosen, the secretary said. This business session, which will be held in the afternoon, will be for members only, McCain added.

The Southern University conference originated in New Orleans in 1932.

BITES AT FORT VALLEY FOR ACCIDENT VICTIM

FORT VALLEY, Ga., Dec. 2.—Funeral services were held at the Baptist church this afternoon for Wayne D. Wilson, 35-year-old farmer, who was killed Saturday night as his car overturned just out of Fort Valley on Route 49. Rev. M. D. Reed pastor, officiated, assisted by Rev. J. H. House, pastor of the Methodist church. He was a member of Benevolence Baptist church in Crawford county.

Wilson is survived by his wife, who was, before her marriage, Miss Christine Shirts; three children, his father, E. F. (Dock) Wilson, and a sister. He was a nephew of J. A. L. Wilson, of Fort Valley.

Wilson was returning to his home when apparently he lost control of his car and it turned over down a steep embankment. A negro, passing early Sunday discovered the car and notified officials.

Coroner Jim Harris' jury decided that death resulted from an unavoidable accident.

COTTON TRADE VOICES OVER-REDUCTION FEAR

25 to 30 per cent on the same base acreage, 44,500,000 acres.

In the face of this reduction, foreign exports since August 1 have totaled nearly 3,000,000 bales, a million more than during the same period last year, and there has been no indication of a let-down in the demand.

I. V. Shannon, veteran observer for the brokerage house of Penner & Beane, believes consumption this season may exceed production by 2,000,000 bales. This would reduce the carry-over from past years to 7,000,000 bales, of which the government owns 5,500,000 bales.

Under the 25 per cent acreage reduction last year, farmers could have planted 33,400,000 acres, but they planted only 29,100,000 acres last season, and there is no indication in force, it is doubtful that more than 30,000,000 acres will be planted, thus producing a crop of about 11,000,000 bales, Shannon said.

Participation Outlook.

Others said it was likely that fewer farmers would participate in the AAA in 1936, due to the higher market. Spot cotton sellers further pointed out that the plan called for all the AAA guarantees which is all the AAA in the AAA, so many farmers may decide to grow commodity crops and forego consent to the AAA.

Spoken for the American Cotton Co-operative Association, staunch defender of the AAA, believe sharecroppers, who comprise about half the 2,200,000 growers of cotton and who have no interest in the farm except their labor in the growing crop, will benefit most from the 1936 program.

Formerly, landowners and those furnishing work stock and equipment, got all the benefit payments and most of the parity payments from the AAA. The new program gives 50 per cent of the payments to owners of the crop. Sharecroppers, who usually work the land on a 50-50 basis, will get half the half, or 25 per cent of the money.

NEW COTTON PROGRAM "SURPRISES" TALMADGE

Governor Talmadge said last night he was "surprised" to learn that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's future cotton control plan called for a greater reduction in acreage than at present but declined to comment further on the plan. He said that he would have nothing to say on the control plan until he had studied it fully.

"I must say that I'm surprised at the increase in acreage taken out of production but as he further commented, I must withhold it until I have read the plan in its entirety."

ATLANTA COTTON MEN FEAR HIGHER PRICES

Atlanta cotton men, asked last night for their opinions of the AAA four-year cotton program, apparently were more or less in accord.

The attitude was expressed by Norman Elsas, vice president of the Fulton Bag & Cotton Mills. Mr. Elsas said:

"I am in favor of any program that will help the farmer financially. I believe that he is entitled to help as much or more than anyone else. One of the first things to be asked, however, is 'Who is going to pay the bill?'"

"I feel that cotton programs which call for further curtailment of American production are going to hurt the American cotton producer. When cotton production is limited here, increased production is encouraged in other countries."

T. M. Forbes, secretary of the Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia, expressed similar beliefs.

"The textile mills are fully in sympathy with any benefits given the cotton farmer," he said. "Our principal objection is to the processing tax. We feel that through this tax the farmer is forced to bear the cost of his own relief program. Further increases in the cost of cotton may be harmful."

"The processing tax is not put on competitive fibers. Mercerized yarn, for example, competes against rayon fabrics. There is a processing tax on the mercerized yarn but none on the rayon. As a result, the mills producing mercerized yarn have virtually been put out of business."

"Another example of the inequality of the processing tax is seen in the slump in production of cotton bags. Jute and paper bags bear no processing tax and are outstripping the cotton bag sales."

"If the farmer is to be given more money, and he is entitled to it, through an increase in the processing tax, I would say that the results will be distinctly harmful."

Armand May, president of the American Associated Companies, cotton factors and brokers, made a similar statement.

"The high price of cotton tends to discourage its use," he said. "The failure of the cotton crop in Brazil this year has tended to make the price of cotton higher in this country and to increase the demand for home cotton. A possible cotton crop failure with the additional curtailment of a control

SOUTH'S COTTON TRADERS PLEASED WITH PROGRAM

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(UP) Front street reacted favorably tonight to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's new four-year cotton adjustment program. Most traders expressed themselves as "pleased."

Charles G. Henry, president of the Mid-South Cotton Growers' Association, termed the plan "splendid." He said the 30 to 45 per cent acreage reduction left plenty of leeway to suit the needs of individual farmers.

Henry also saw in the new program a greater stability for the farmer over a longer period and the elimination of inequities under the old plan.

Judge Gives Formula For Happy Marriage

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(AP)—With 3,000 reconciliations of parted couples to his credit, Superior Court Judge Joseph Sabath celebrated his twenty-fifth anniversary on the bench today by discarding his formula for happy marriage:

"The only way to stay married—is to stay married."

The 46,000 marital rifts he has handled during a quarter of a century has convinced him, he said, that divorces are always caused by "a little foolishness."

"Whether it concerns finances, or a third person, or something else, the stumbling block usually is a triviality," the veteran jurist asserted.

The judge himself has been happily married since 1887. He has three children, and seven grandchildren, most of whom dropped into his courtroom to congratulate him.

GEORGE MILTON LAUDS SOCIAL SECURITY BILL

Chattanooga Editor Says People Favor Old-Age Pension.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Praising the social security bill in an address here tonight, George Fort Milton, editor of the Chattanooga News and noted historian, warned that "our statesmen had better heed the call for security."

"It is something the people want so deeply that they will not endure any leadership that does not move that way," he said. The editor spoke under auspices of the Julius Friedlander fund for the Columbus public schools, at the high school auditorium. He said fears of unemployment, sickness and indigent old age had brought a "world-wide" demand for security. Though lauding the present social security bill as a beginning toward meeting this demand, the speaker urged simplification of its structure and modification "so the government would bear its due part of the load." Milton lauded the Bankhead bill as "a sound corrective of farm tenantry." He insisted, however, that while the government should control agricultural production, increase was "the path to plenty, and reduction to the path to want." The Tennessee Valley Authority was termed by Milton "one of the finest stimuli of social imagination now to be found in America."

necessary to ask and expect new services from the government. "The New Deal is trying to grapple with this new public need," he asserted. "If it can do so, it will mean a more and more abundant life for America."

Milton likened President Roosevelt to Lincoln in his "extraordinary understanding of the qualities of public feeling and in his ability to channel it along nationally useful lines."

GEN. W. A. HARRIS HONORED AT MACON

Son of Former Governor Named City's 'Outstanding Citizen.'

MACON, Ga., Dec. 2.—(AP)—General Walter A. Harris, president of the Macon Historical Society, was honored at a banquet tonight as Macon's outstanding citizen for 1934. Scores of citizens attended the civic banquet, of which W. MacDavis was general chairman. Professor G. F. Oliphant, of the Georgia Academy for the Blind, was chief speaker. His efforts for development of the Kumulgee fields and Indian mounds here were factors in the selection of General Harris. General Harris, who is a son of former Governor Nat E. Harris, of Georgia, commanded the Georgia brigade during the World War, and rose from the rank of private to brigadier general. He was a leader in the Macon Centennial celebration in 1923.

Whipping Post Hinted For Negligent Husbands

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 2.—(AP)—The whipping post might be a good thing for employed husbands who let their families go hungry and spend their money on whisky, says Judge H. Mercer Jordan, of recorders' court. A woman police sergeant told the recorder the man made $30 a week, and gave his family of six children only $2 for their needs. While the case never reached the docket, the court gave the man a lecture. The police sergeant said welfare agencies had been called on to help the family in getting furniture and bedding, and that she saw the head of the family at the courthouse, his breath smelling of liquor. Judge Jordan told the man if any police officer saw him in the next 60 days with evidence of his having been drinking, he would send him to jail for 60 days. The recorder commented the whipping post might be a good plan for such cases.

Store Executive Describes Daring Holdup

R. K. Carrigan (left), assistant manager of the W. T. Grant store at 82 Whitehall street, is shown here telling Patrolman W. E. Whitten the details of the daring holdup staged by two bandits on crowded Whitehall street shortly after noon yesterday while hundreds of shoppers and business people watched helplessly. The things got away with a money satchel containing $3,975.85, more than $3,000 of it in currency. Staff photo by George Cornett.

SEN. BLACK REVEALS LOBBYING COST PROBE

Black Reveals Business Will Get Questionnaires on Legislation 'Buying.'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Protracted public hearings this winter in a thorough investigation of lobbying in general were forecast today by Chairman Black, of the special senate lobby committee.

The Alabama democrat, whose sharp questions brought headline-making testimony from utility officials last summer disclosed that 3,000 to 5,000 questionnaires have been sent to organized business groups and individuals.

Through these, the committee is attempting to learn how much money is spent to influence federal legislation. Black indicated a belief the sum would run high into the millions if it could be accurately determined.

"My estimate that $5,000,000 was spent to defeat the administration's utilities bill alone," he added, "is too low."

Black declined to discuss specifically the nature of information his investigators have unearthed thus far.

"What I think would be sensational," he said, "might not appear so in the minds of others. At any rate, the testimony to be brought out at the hearings will at least be interesting."

He smiled as he emphasized the word "interesting."

Business groups that have received the questionnaire include the National Association of Manufacturers, but Black was quick to say that the fact any organization was queried did not indicate it was suspected of engaging in improper lobbying activities.

"We sent those questionnaires to all groups and individuals who had or might have an interest in legislation," he explained. "What we are trying to do is to get a complete picture."

The business organizations were asked, among other things, the names of their representatives who have appeared on Capitol Hill, their salaries and other money paid out "directly or indirectly" to influence legislation.

Black said some of the organizations and individuals had refused to answer all of the questions. He indicated that those declining to answer would be summoned personally to testify at the hearings.

The chairman said no decision had been reached whether to reopen committee hearings with utilities or swing into the activities of other business groups. He indicated the hearings would be resumed soon, possibly before congress meets January 3.

The Alabama man is working for legislation to require registration of all persons who appear in behalf of pending bills.

"There is a crying need for it," he said. "Their activities may be laudable, but I think congress and the people have a right to know who they are representing and how much they are being paid."

EGYPTIAN STUDENTS RIOT AGAINST BRITAIN
CAIRO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Violent student riots against Great Britain's influence in Egypt broke out tonight. "Long live the revolution! Long live Nahas, leader of the revolution!" students shouted.

"Down with Hoare (British foreign secretary who opposes Egyptian independence)," others cried.

The students were followers of Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafd party which advocates severance of all British ties with Egypt. Although technically Britain freed Egypt from protectorate in 1922, the constitution adopted that year has been under suspension for several years.

Nearly 1,000 students and sympathizers marched through the streets, tearing down iron guards around trees as weapons to attack police.

Pet Deer, Lost in City,
Disrupts Police Routine
"This is P. F. Bradford, of the county police," said the voice over the phone to police headquarters. "I nearly ran over a deer in front of 1003 Washington street, S. W."

"Go on home and go to bed, Bradford," retorted the desk sergeant.

"I'm not kidding," said Bradford. "And I need a new wrecked my car trying to get out of my way."

Radio Car No. 18 with Officers E. A. Dorsey and J. H. Parham was dispatched on the deer hunt. In an alley at 1004 Washington street they cornered their quarry. One of the patrolmen blinded the animal with a flashlight while the other grabbed him.

"He walked right into the car like he was used to riding," they reported.

At police headquarters the animal disrupted business for a short time, following his new friends about. He had some difficulty standing, however, on the concrete floor.

The mystery of the deer was solved when Harry S. Kaylor phoned to report his pet missing from the backyard of his home at 1026 Washington street. The deer, he said, was a little more than a year old and had been captured near Brunswick when very young by Dr. Rovee Roman, of Cascade road.

LARGE CROWDS WATCH
HOLDUP ON WHITEHALL

machine was turned right and thence into Pryor street.

Running after the car on foot, Carrigan saw the machine race past the Pryor and Decatur streets intersection and then lost track of it. It was later reported speeding out Auburn avenue.

The daring holdup was staged with such speed and precision that pedestrians were stunned by the swiftness of the robbery and stood helplessly by. A short time later police headquarters was deluged with telephoned descriptions of the bandit who took the satchel. Divergent descriptions were furnished police, but all agreed the man was more than six feet tall.

$200 in Pockets.
Carrigan had $300 in currency in his pockets but the bandits fled without finding this money.

The assistant manager said it had been the custom for him and a second man to take the money to the bank for deposit on Mondays. He said neither of them was armed.

The victims took part in the belief at first several of their friends were playing a joke on them. Carrigan said friends frequently joked with him about carrying the money unarmed.

A description of the car and its license number was broadcast several minutes later to police radio patrols, but none of the radio patrol sighted the bandit machine. A check of license numbers at the state capitol revealed the license had been issued to another make of car and police were of the opinion the plates had been stolen and affixed to the bandit car, which they also believed stolen.

TWO BADLY HURT IN AUTO CRASHES

Fulton County Police Unable To Give Details of Bad Accident.

Two persons were injured critically and others suffered less serious injuries in two accidents late last night.

In a wreck on the Fairburn road, between Palmetto and Fairburn, Denval Hardy and Pascal Williams, Fairburn negroes, were critically injured. They were admitted to Grady hospital, John Cooper, 15, of Fairburn white youth, and a girl, were also injured in the same accident, was taken to Crawford Long hospital, where his injuries were said to be not serious.

Fulton county police were unable to give any details of the accident last night.

The other accident occurred in DeKalb county two miles from Decatur on the Lawrenceville road. Dan Favors, negro, was brought to Grady hospital suffering a possible fracture of the skull. Hospital attaches said his condition "was not believed serious."

The negro was said by DeKalb county police to have been injured in a crash between a truck and a passenger car. A number of white persons were killed and injured but he left the scene before the arrival of police. They could not be located in any Atlanta hospital.

FORGERY ALLEGATIONS MADE AGAINST WOMAN

Arrested on suspicion of forgery by Detective Lieutenant C. E. McCrary, Janet Elsie Hyde, 34, who varied her address between 1003 Washington street and New York city, is being held by police.

The woman was arrested in a downtown store after an employee became suspicious of a check presented by her and called police. In her purse were found 40 checks of the Citizen & Southern Bank, bearing the name of the National Tube Company, in the Candler building. The amounts of the checks varied from $27.50 to $55 and were made out on a mechanical check writer payable to "Dorothy Hanford."

Lieutenant McCrary said the woman admitted the checks were no good. The National Tube Company said their checks are all made out at the home office in New York.

Bill Brady and Carlisle Taylor will represent Emory University in the discussion and the speakers from the University of Georgia will be P. B. Sell and Jane McKinnon. The representatives of Brenau have not been announced.

Each of the schools represented tonight holds one or more programs of this type each year at their own campuses. The meetings are held as open forums rather than as debates because the audience is given more opportunity to participate. This is the first meeting of the kind held here this year, with others to follow at the various colleges.

TREATMENT PLANT LOCATION FOUGHT

Utoy Creek Site Protested; Hansell Cites Added Costs of Change.

A committee appointed by civic clubs of Cascade Heights, Ben Hill, Adamsville, West End and the West End Business Men's Club will report at a meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the West Haven school auditorium, Gordon and Hightower roads on proposed methods for avoiding the erection of a sewage disposal plant by the city on Utoy creek.

Claiming that the proposed site is too close to residential districts and is within the future expansion limits of the city itself, residents of the section will protest the erection from the standpoint of depreciated property values and health, it was announced by S. M. White, president of the West Side Civic and Improvement club.

In the meantime, an answer to the complaint was made last night by W. A. Hansell, assistant chief of construction and engineer of sewers.

"The city is perfectly willing to locate the disposal plant on the Chattahoochee river, as has been suggested, providing a means of raising the additional funds which would be necessary for such an arrangement is also provided," Hansell said.

There would be a saving in cost of construction of the treatment plant at the river as compared to one at Utoy creek of approximately $85,000, Hansell declared, but the 30,000 additional feet of pipe required and the labor of constructing the pipe line would cost approximately $250,000 more, he said.

Famed La Argentina Dances Here Tonight

La Argentina, world-famous Spanish dancer, who appears at Fox theater tonight. Staff photo by Kenneth Rogers.

Green-Eyed La Argentina Danced At Madrid Opera When Only Five

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG.

La Argentina, the lady with the "green eyes" that dance and sparkle at you and the smile that engulfs you in its charm, one of the world's foremost dancers, greeted a group of interviewers at her hotel suite yesterday morning and expressed her delight at returning to Atlanta for a concert. She eagerly anticipates appearing at the Fox theater tonight to a house already completely sold out.

Those of us who "fell for" La Argentina's art and stage personality upon the occasion of her former concert here were even more fascinated by her personality in meeting her informally. It was easy to understand how her expressive green eyes inspired the noted Spanish composer, Granados, to write the "Dance of Green Eyes" for her. This was his last composition before his death. He wrote several other compositions expressly for La Argentina, some of them appearing on the program tonight.

Arnold Meckel, La Argentina's manager, graciously interpreted the interview for us. For La Argentina speaks very little English, although she understands practically everything, he said. Through him, she told us something of her life history. Both her father and mother were dancers and she was born in Buenos Aires, Argentina, while her parents were on a five-year tour of South America. When she was two years old she returned to her native Madrid.

Debut at Five.
From the time she was three years old La Argentina has been a dancer. She made her debut at the age of five. Her mother was first ballerina at the Royal Opera at Madrid, and at an important performance following the coronation of the Spanish king she was ill. La Argentina filled her place; though only five, danced the performance and won the greatest success of her entire career. She has since duplicated that success.

La Argentina's mother wanted her daughter to be a great singer, thinking a singer's life was easier than a dancer's and sent her to the Royal Conservatory of Madrid to complete her musical education. From the conservatory she graduated as a singer with a lovely contralto voice, but her heart was in the dance and she was not content to be anything but a dancer. Her prime ambition was to perpetrate the art of the Spanish dance, so young Antonia Marce (La Argentina's real name, turned again to dancing and the dance stage and from it she has reaped one of the greatest careers any dancer has ever known. She adopted the name of La Argentina, the name of the land of her birth for her stage name.

La Argentina only dances Spanish dances or dances bearing Spanish influence. She creates all her own dances and stunts the music to which she dances unendingly. She herself is an accomplished pianist and is familiar with every note of a composition before she begins to create her dance to the music.

La Argentina made her American debut in 1928, and since that time it has been most gratifying to her. She has danced in every city, not only in numbers, but in appreciation and understanding of her art. She loves American audiences, for she says they are very enthusiastic. And her favorite American dish is waffles!

CITY COUNCIL CLASHES ON MERGER PROPOSAL

county commission veto power over submitting it to the people is obvious. The county commission now has a right to investigate the matter any time it sees fit. It has demonstrated little interest in the issue.

White objected to implication he was in anyway influenced by the county commission.

"Don't you think it would be better to have the approval of the county commission and the council?" White asked.

"I don't think I don't know where that line of talk comes from," Key countered. "I've seen them operate before. It is well known that the county is controlled largely by those who are on the payroll of the county—by the county crowd."

Expects County Opposition.
"It also is well known that many members of the Fulton county democratic executive committee also were put there by the county crowd. It might be a good thing to let the commissioners vote on the matter. I have an idea they will not approve it. But this issue should not be settled that way. Let the people get a picture of the county commission standing in the way of efficient, economical and progressive government. It might help them select their commissioners in the next election."

"It would delay the consolidation for a little while, but it might be worth it. This question is going to have far reaching repercussions. You can't dispose of this thing that way—that is by passing the matter to someone else. It took seven years to get the wards reduced in Atlanta even after the people had voted overwhelmingly for it."

"The people are to be heard on this matter and that very emphatically. You are not making progress by evasion. You are digging a pitfall for yourselves. A favorable vote on this matter will be a mandate to representatives from Fulton county to put the consolidation into effect."

"Many of the suggested consolidations can take place without legislative action at all. Where a constitutional matter arises, that can be handled later. Details can be worked out later."

"Scars" for Support.
"And Mr. White just told you he had scars and that others have scars on them they will carry to their graves in supporting the administrative. I have done what I believed to be the right thing all along, and I too have scars."

"When did you get so afraid of the people? You asked them to trust you. When did you decide they could not be trusted?"

"Mr. White has not always supported the administration."

"When did I not, when a matter of economy was involved?" White asked.

"How about the veto for $400,000 for schools that you voted to override me on?" Key countered. "You and other members of council who voted to override me later admitted I was right."

"Now I'll tell you what. I'm not seeking anything out of this merger business, but some of you are. Assume your responsibilities in the matter. If you fail in small things, the people will not trust you in greater things. Do your full duty in this matter."

Promised Vote for Plan.
White previously had asserted he would vote to ask the county democratic committee to put the referendum on the ballot—the only issue before council.

He, however, had insisted that a definite plan be offered for each merger proposition. During his address he asserted he was glad the mayor favored the people voting on anything affecting the government and contended such an attitude placed the mayor on record as favoring establishment of a city manager for Atlanta, a program White has championed for the past several months.

McCutcheon and White clashed

when White was making his appeal for adoption of the amendment requiring approval of the county commission before asking the democratic executive committee to submit the referendum.

"You are always entertaining even if you aren't convincing," McCutcheon yelled. The council laughed.

The move by Alderman J. Glover Hailey to send the entire matter back to the commission was passed by a vote of 20 for 8 against White's motion to allow the commission to pass on the consolidation passed by a vote of 16 for 13 against, and the motion to allow the entire county of DeKalb to vote on the issue passed by a vote of 16 for 15 against.

Opponents of the consolidation, with opponents in the motion to refer the matter back to the commission. This was assumed to be an indication they will attempt to cut the two amendments from the proposal and re-submit it with a hope of forcing it through council unopposed and unhampered with any "evasive provisions."

Other Actions Taken.
Among other important actions taken by council were the following:

1. Elected Mrs. D. R. Longino, president of the Atlanta Council Parent-Teacher Association, as thirteenth ward member of the Atlanta board of education to succeed George W. Powell, resigned.

2. Sent to the prison committee of council, headed by Councilman George B. Lyle, a proposal to sell 83 acres adjoining the city dairy farm property to the city for $5,500. The offer was made through W. A. Wright by Mrs. H. L. Sattler, of Monticello, Fla. Lyle said if the city continues to increase the number of prisoners, additional facilities will become mandatory.

3. Reduced the city license of electrical contractors dealing in retail electrical appliances from $105 per year to $90, provided a combined license is obtained.

4. Authorized purchase of $100 worth of headed by Councilman George B. Lyle, a proposal to sell 83 acres adjoining the city dairy farm property to the city for $5,500. The offer was made through W. A. Wright by Mrs. H. L. Sattler, of Monticello, Fla. Lyle said if the city continues to increase the number of prisoners, additional facilities will become mandatory.

5. Accepted the bid of the Trust Company of Georgia and its affiliates for the $1,775,000 bond issue for sewer and school improvements. The company and associates will pay $1,338,985 for the entire issue.

6. Approved a resolution setting up $60 in order that Raymond W. Torres, engineer-secretary of the city planning commission, and George L. Simmons, general manager of the parks department, attend the southeastern conference on planning to begin Wednesday at Savannah.

7. Authorized the chief of construction to employ necessary engineers to expedite work on the sanitary sewer system.

8. Sent to the city committee a proposal by Alderman Thomas C. McLaurin, third ward, to allow payment of city taxes in 12 equal monthly installments.

INCREASED DEFENSES ORDERED FOR LONDON

League committee meeting a week from Friday.

The possibility that Hoare might secretly see foreign leaders in his Swiss retreat, however, was not ruled out in London.

Upon reaching Paris, the foreign secretary is expected to give Laval Britain's final word on oil sanctions and receive the French leader's review of Mussolini's attitude.

(Unofficial sources in Rome have said that application of an oil embargo against Italy would be a serious blow to the cabinet session, an informed source said Britain's stand toward an oil embargo would not be changed by the Canadian government's announcement of its refusal to join at Geneva "was expressing only his personal opinion, when he proposed the oil boycott."

PRESSURE OF SANCTIONS BEING FELT IN ITALY.
ROME, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Italy has begun to feel the pressure of League of Nations economic sanctions, business leaders said tonight, and is faced with solving unemployment and credit problems.

Italy's imports and exports—normally are about 1,000,000,000 lire (about $80,000,000)—were cut in two, these sources said, by the embargo. The result is a shortage of goods and a drop in the wages of nearly 1,000,000 men.

Part of this slack in employment, fascist state, will be taken up by an extension of the 30-hour week, and part by producing war supplies.

Small firms which manufacture for export are dependent on foreign material may face a crisis soon, said less they can turn to other work, said business experts.

Bankers expressed the opinion credit must be easier in order to tide these firms over the first few months of sanctions.

Il Duce set the pace for shortening hours with his decree giving public office employees a six-hour day—from 9 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., and from 1:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Scores of offices were already working on the seven-hour day, from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., with half an hour for lunch.

As the international boycott pressure strengthened, the women of Italy promised Premier Mussolini they would build a figurative barricade of their own rings from behind which they would fight sanctions.

Mothers and widows of men who died in the World War, representing all of Italy's 94 provinces, pledged that every wife and widow in Italy would put her ring in the national pot of gold.

The women, who will be in charge of a house-to-house "mobilization" against sanctions, fixed December 18 as "faith day," the end of the first month of the League's economic "siege."

On that day they will offer their wedding rings, either at the graves of Italy's war dead or at monuments to them.

The women whose slogan in their country-wide campaign will be "resist"—will instruct all Italians strictly to adhere to rules for conservation of food and fuel, to give scrap metal and gold to the government, and to save paper and waste material.

There are about 8,000,000 families, and in many cases both men and women have wedding rings. Jewelers estimated that if 10,000,000 rings were given each ring averaging 7.12 grams—they would weigh 82.12 tons and be worth 1,158,750,000 lire (about $92,700,000).

EVACUATION OF HARAR BY TROOPS ORDERED
GENEVA, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Evacuation of Harar troops from the important city of Harar was reported to the League of Nations today by Emperor Haile Selassie's government.

The Ethiopian message stated the move was an attempt to avert an air bombardment of the strategic city, in order to spare the civilian population, including foreigners.

The government decided, said the message, that Harar, the second largest city in Ethiopia, would be used solely as a depot for the wounded from Ogaden province and the southern part of the country for any military purpose whatsoever.

Members of the League of Nations general staff for sanctions, commenting on the Ethiopian message, expressed their confidence in the Ethiopian government's representative proposal for oil sancfrom 30,000 to 40,000 men, was reported gathering in the south near Addis Ababa. Light rains are continuing in that area, although Ethiopia's rainy season has been over for two months.

HAILE BUSY ORGANIZING GENERAL HEADQUARTERS.
LASSIE AT DESSE, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, who had directed his palace to run his armies, busied himself today with military matters.

The ruler is establishing a general headquarters here from which he intends to direct Ethiopia's defense against the Italian onslaught from both the north and south.

Haile Selassie made a triumphant trip by caravan to Desse, which is 175 miles northeast of Addis Ababa. Thousands of natives gathered in villages through which he passed to pay him homage.

They brought gifts of cows, goats and chickens—even lions and leopards. A few fighting men were seen in the villages. Most of the population was made up of women, children and old men—presumably most able-bodied men are already at the front.

SIR SAMUEL ORDERED TO TAKE MONTH'S REST

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, will take a month's holiday in Switzerland on the advice of his physicians, it was officially announced today.

The foreign office said Hoare, who recently suffered an attack of arthritis, will depart Saturday, stopping at Paris to confer with French Premier Laval.

Anthony Eden, British minister for League of Nations affairs, will substitute for Hoare in the foreign office, while Lord S. Hoare will take Hoare's place at the naval conference beginning December 9, it was stated.

tions against Italy, said the matter could have only "academic interest."

These officials said the resolution, sponsored by Dr. W. A. Riddell, Canada's permanent representative at Geneva, remains valid because it was formally adopted in principle by the committee of 18, Russia, Rumania and other nations, they pointed out, have approved it in notes.

It is stated, however, that the result cannot be affected by a determination of whether Dr. Riddell's action was personal or based on his government's instructions.

League circles understood the Canadian government does not wish to assume leadership in questions which do not directly concern its interests.

ENGLISH NAVY CALLS HER RESERVE OFFICERS.
NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Orders received by officers and engineers in the British merchant marine disclosed today officers of the royal naval reserve have been called to report for duty at Portsmouth, England.

Eighty officers and engineers of the Cunard White Star Line have received the call and others ordered to report are from the peninsula and orient, the Oriental Navigation Company, the Royal Mail Company, the Union Castle and Prince and other lines.

Shipping officials suggested a shortage of rated officers occasioned by fitting out additional British ships was the cause for the reservists being called. No difficulty is expected in finding replacements for the merchant marine posts, shipping men said.

BONE SEEKS TO HALT SHIPMENTS FOR WAR

Senator Upholds Sanctions; Says Profiteer's Day Is Done.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The threat of a full congressional inquiry of American industrialists who, despite warnings by the administration continue to trade with Italy and Ethiopia while the two nations are at war, was raised tonight by Senator Homer T. Bone, democrat, Washington.

A members of the militant munitions investigating committee, Bone made no secret of the fact that his ire has been aroused by the attitude that some businessmen are taking toward efforts by this country to maintain strict neutrality in the Ethiopian clash.

"If these greedy Americans, who show that they love dollars more than their country, do one single thing which pushes us nearer the hell of war, you may rest assured they'll be investigated by our committee," Bone told the United Press.

Fighting Committee.
"Also, we won't handle them with kid gloves," he continued. "We have a fighting committee. All over this great nation, men who know war is hell and futile and women who always suffer more than anyone else are demanding that we stay at peace with the world."

"We will stay at peace. Congress will see to that. The war profiteer has had his day. He may not know it—but he has."

Bone is one of the smallest men in the senate. He weighs about 110 pounds, speaks in a high, nervous voice and is not afraid to cross lanes with the chamber's sharpest tongued members. He was one of a few senators who dared verbally to "spank" the late Huey Long.

When, at the last session of congress, it appeared likely that the neutrality act would be snowed under in the last rush of business toward adjournment, Bone gained the floor. He informed startled leaders that no further legislation would be enacted until the senate had moved to keep this nation out of war.

Leaders Capitulate.
Bone had not talked long before leaders realized they were faced with a well-organized filibuster and capitulated. The little westerner and his colleagues on the committee didn't get everything they wanted, but it was a start toward a fixed goal. They will come back in January prepared to draft a much stronger neutrality act.

A majority of the munitions committee, he said tonight, are agreed that the President should be given specific instructions to embargo not only munitions but every American product that can be used for war.

The classification of what constitutes war materials would be left to the discretion of the chief executive in new legislation, which Bone favors and the ban on them would be imposed when the President felt their shipment would endanger this country's neutrality.

Bone Unwilling.
Further than this, however, in the question of giving the President wider discretionary power to preserve American neutrality, Bone was not willing to go. Secretary of State Cordell Hull recently took the position that Mr. Roosevelt's hands should not be tied on such an important matter as keeping this nation out of war. The chief executive, Hull implied, should have more discretionary authority.

"No," said Bone today. "With all respect to the President, I am opposed to such a plan and will fight it in the senate. I am fully confident that Mr. Roosevelt would not abuse his authority as he does."

"But we want and will have definite restrictions in the act. It is the responsibility of congress to keep this country at peace and we in the senate will not discard that responsibility."

ASSAULT IS CHARGED TO MRS. LIVERMORE

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothea Wendt Livermore Longcope, accused of shooting her 16-year-old son, Jesse Livermore Jr., son of the Wall Street speculator, was formally charged today with assault with intent to commit murder. Preliminary hearing for the divorced second wife of Jesse Livermore Sr. was set for December 9. She was released under bond of $3,000 cash and $8,000 property.

The boy, his condition still grave from a bullet allegedly inflicted by his mother after a drunken argument, may be removed from the Cottage hospital for the hearing.

2,000 PUPILS AFFECTED AS TEACHERS STRIKE

Instructors To Demand 50 Per Cent of Back Pay Before Returning to Work.

RAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Classrooms were closed to approximately 2,000 rural pupils in Hancock county today as their teachers struck over delinquent pay.

Some fifty instructors joined 35 bus drivers and transportation men in the action.

With salaries several months in arrears and pay certificates devalued to the worth of a "scrap of paper," the country school teachers warned the board of supervisors last week they could carry on no longer. They insisted they were without money with which to meet the bare necessities of life.

The threat was carried out today and a forced vacation made school days "school-less" ones for the rural pupils.

Exceptions in the closing were the municipal schools of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Clermont Harbor and Edwardsville schools where either the teachers were not in arrears in salary payments or state funds for the first four months of the year had not been exhausted.

The teachers said that because of financial stress when their contracts were signed no set salaries were written in, but that even on that score they had not been paid for the latter part of last session and the three months of this year.

Their spokesmen demanded some arrangement for the payment of past due salaries and assurance that they would be paid 50 per cent of current salaries before they would return to work.

Big Brothers Plan for Sale To Aid Needy Children

Big Brothers rallied to the cause last night at the first Big Brothers' Club meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters. Seated in the picture, left to right, are A. L. Henson and Harry Barfield, co-chairmen of the paper sales committee of the third annual Big Brothers' campaign for Christmas cheer for poor children. Standing, left to right, are Major Guy O. Guest, Major M. L. Boswell, Major Stuart Hazzard, Major Henry Sandford and Major Ted Butler. These are some of the workers who will put the worthy campaign over on December 15. Honour, Peachtree Heights; A. O. Mitchell, Garden Hills; Franklin S. Chalmers, Peachtree Heights park, and Bert Miller, Buckhead.

Majors for other wards and sections will be elected at the meeting Friday, Chairman Barfield said.

Appeal for Aid.

An appeal for church organizations, men's clubs, women's societies and any and all groups to join in the great crusade of the Big Brothers was issued last night by General Chairman Cecil R. Hall, Chairman Barfield and Co-Chairman A. L. Henson, also of the paper sales committee.

"Big Brothers do more to make the Christmas of poor children bright and cheerful than any other charitable organization," Barfield said.

"They raise the money to buy the kiddies' cheery little gifts by selling the special Big Brother Edition of The Constitution for two hours on December 15."

"They sell the paper to their friends and relatives in their wards and the money paid for the paper goes to make the life of some destitute child a bit happier and more livable on that all-important day when Santa Claus is king. No other charity demands so little from its workers, either," Barfield declared.

He pointed out that the Big Brothers simply signify their wish to help by signing and sending in headquarters the Big Brother which accompanies this article. Then on December 15 they devote two hours of their time to selling the paper.

Charity Ball Planned.

In the meantime, W. L. Van Dyke, chairman of the ball committee, announces that he has laid plans for the most colorful and entertaining grand charity ball the Big Brothers have ever held. This year it will be held on December 18 at the Shrine mosque, and though the first two balls were pronounced successes by all who attended, Van Dyke says the third will top them by yards. He has many special features which will furnish additional enjoyment to the thousands who will purchase tickets during the next three weeks from the corps of Big Brother workers who are helping in the sale.

If you have not already joined the Big Brothers, do it now. It's for Big Brothers and Big Sisters, too, so sign the coupon and send it to Big Brothers Headquarters, Chamber of Commerce building.

In the eastern states, light snow was falling yesterday in many places from Pennsylvania northward and in some parts of the Appalachians as far south as Asheville, N. C. The heaviest snowfall was in parts of New York and near the Great Lakes.

Elsewhere, the condition was generally fair, the weather bureau pointing out that the cold wave was due to high atmospheric pressure and that fair weather usually accompanies these conditions.

TRANSIENTS ARE BARRED FROM POLICE QUARTERS

Cold weather forces for Atlanta will find "sleepers" as Atlanta's peniless transients are known by police, without a place of lodging.

An order was issued yesterday closing the recorder's court to the sleepers. They had been permitted to sleep there after the fifth floor of the new city jail had been closed to them to provide quarters for out-of-town police, who came to the city to assist in handling the crowds during the Roosevelt celebration.

The fifth floor, originally intended to house federal prisoners, has not been reopened to the transients.

ter living conditions. I think there are a million families.

"It is perfectly clear that the government can't do this in every community. There is not enough money in the treasury. But the government can set an example.

"The success depends not only on government planning in a field that is new, but as we go ahead we are going to make good more cheaply and better than here.

Example to Nation.

"A great obligation rests on you. The example that you set to the rest of the nation will have a tremendous effect on what is done elsewhere.

"The co-operation that the authorities of Harris county have given on this project ought to be followed by the authorities of other counties. The bigger percentage who make good here, the more encouragement to the others.

"I am delighted at the fine spirit here. It is wonderful to see what can be done with old scrub land. We and our ancestors took a lot away from the soil and gave nothing back. In one sense, we are atoning for the mistakes of our grandfathers. It will take a long time before rural life is brought up to the level where it ought to be."

Views New Houses.

Driving across the valley, the President saw new one-story houses built on stone piles, strangely contrasting with occasional old tumble-down shacks in the vicinity.

Vises carried lighting to the homes. Some of the first settlers had gardens. Others were busy tending the land to prevent soil erosion. There were numerous mud piles holding the harvest of yams.

The government set aside $125,000 for this experiment and $500,000 has been spent. The houses cost about $1,600 each and are to be amortized by the people who have gone there. They are folks from the cities with rural backgrounds and people from lands that failed to produce a living.

Visits Callaway Estate.

Mr. Roosevelt motored on from the rural experiment to the country estate of Cason Callaway, LaGrange mill owner, and spent the evening in his home at near-by Blue Springs.

In the center of the valley where the community center is taking form and where later canning and processing establishments will be constructed, the President stopped before the crowd of women and children who were joined by the men folks.

Roosevelt Eubanks, chairman of the settlers' council, stepped up and read a brief written speech, stating "In the heart of forgotten men new hopes, new courage and determination have been born. Our labors in this new land of promise will demonstrate our gratitude from year to year."

"Uncle Henry" Speaks.

He then called upon "Uncle Henry" Kimbrough, of Chipley, a county leader and member of the state forestry board. The gray-haired local citizen bearing securities were offered at auction and sold always at slightly more than par value, the yield being the difference between that premium and accrued interest.

The "auction" plan was first used last summer. It brought an immediate outcry from bankers and dealers in government securities. Late in August, for the first time in history, an offering of government bonds was underwritten, with many blaming the auction system for that circumstance.

The banks, which hold huge amounts of government bonds, contended that the indefinite result of the bidding made it difficult to arrange their investment portfolios and plan intelligently for their future.

The dealers and the bankers, too, claimed that with bidders naturally inclined to shade their bids, and average below the general market price level for previous issues was struck toward which the latter tended to sag.

Inquirers at the treasury as to the result of the offer announced yesterday were reminded it was too early for the announcement of figures, but were told the offer had had a "normal and satisfying response."

told Mr. Roosevelt that Mrs. Kimbrough had written a speech for him and "told me to read it but I just want to talk to you from my heart."

"There used to be just a few old houses and mules hereabouts," he observed. "It is hard to believe what has been done."

"I never have found one person here who is not satisfied. These men never leave anything undone. They are the best farmers in Georgia."

"This is the greatest proposition in the United States. You will never know how much good you have done humanity."

The President was accompanied in his car on the drive by Miss Gay Shepperson, state works program administrator; Dr. M. F. Haygood, manager of the undertaking, and G. Swarthout, construction engineer.

Bob Stephens Makes Acquaintance Of Prominent Educator in Germany

By Sally Forth.

BOB STEPHENS, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert G. Stephens, attained a very high honor at the University of Georgia last year when he won a scholarship to study at the University of Hamburg in Hamburg, Germany. Bob won practically every honor available at the university, social and scholastic, during his four years there, and he sailed several months ago to resume his studies at the German university.

Of course his entire family was glad that he was afforded such a wonderful opportunity, but they were still rather anxious about him, until they received a very reassuring letter from some of his new acquaintances abroad. They had heard quite a bit from Bob about a young boy named Kurt von Laun, whom he met on the boat going over, so they weren't very surprised when they got the note from Kurt's family.

It was written by Professor von Laun, Kurt's father, who is a member of the faculty at the University of Hamburg, and was signed by the entire family. They wrote to tell Dr. and Mrs. Stephens that even though they didn't know them, they thought a great deal of Bob, and enjoyed having him in their home whenever it was possible for him to be here. It was quite reassuring to the Stephens to hear that their son was among friends.

When Bob met Kurt on the boat, Kurt was returning from a prominent eastern university, where he had been studying for several years, and he and Bob have visited Paris and many other European places since that time. Professor von Laun is a man of very keen intelligence, and he has been guest speaker at universities in the States many times. This enterprising young Atlantan is having a remarkable experience, and is evidently in excellent hands.

MR. AND MRS. WARNER MARTIN have named the lovely English house they recently purchased on Habersham road Somerset House. In fact, you will find the name engraved on the brass door knocker.

That architectural genius, the late Neal Reid, designed the house, modeling it from one he saw and admired in Somerset, England. Hence the name Mr. and Mrs. Martin have chosen. On the walls of their charming living room hangs a framed photograph of the English house from which Mr. Reid took his design.

THE prowess of Atlanta's athletic stars have been sung many times over, but word comes to Sally that another young Atlantan is well on the way to aquatic fame. She is Elma Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Smith, and she is a student at the University of Georgia.

Elma is a student in the physical education department at the university and took part in the recent 1935 national telegraphic swimming meet. This meet is conducted annually by the physical education departments throughout the United States, and colleges taking part in the affair hold meets simultaneously and wire results to the national headquarters at the University of Illinois.

But back to Elma. She gained national attention by smashing the 40-yard crawl record in the southern region, covering the distance in 24.4 seconds. To further emphasize what a record Elma ran up for herself, is the fact that the southern region is composed of Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Texas and Mississippi. In the national 40-yard crawl, Elma placed fourth, and came eighth in the 100-yard crawl.

SALLY hears that radio luncheons were the order of the day last Saturday for members of Atlanta's military set. With former classmates and fellow students at the United States Military Academy, officers stationed here and their wives gathered promptly at noon to listen to the Army-Navy football game broadcast.

Included in the list of radio luncheon hostesses was Susan Noble, who invited a group of friends for luncheon at the Fort McPherson quarters of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. William H. Noble. The Army's victory was celebrated with as much enthusiasm by Sue's guests as though the "listeners-in" had been spectators of the annual classic played on Franklin field in Philadelphia.

GLIMPSED here and there: Mesdames Charles J. Haden, H. B. Ritchie and E. V. Sanford conferring with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the "Little White House" at Warm Springs concerning the meeting of the Georgia college women next spring. Rebecca Young, wearing gold flowers in her hair at Ellen Fleming's debut dance. Phil McDuffie Jr. wearing a gay red and blue tie. Lieutenant Bill Booth chatting with Dr. Ross McIntyre, personal physician to President Roosevelt, at General Mosley's luncheon for the President at Fort McPherson. Margaret Walker, as "The Lady in Red" in her tattered evening dress. Leah Ray singing to Hamilton Loke at the Tech dance Saturday evening.

Mrs. Davenport Honors Husband.

Mrs. Eugene L. Davenport entertained a few friends at a dinner party Saturday evening honoring Mr. Davenport on his birthday. The home was artistically decorated with large yellow and white chrysanthemums and pink rose buds. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. O. J. White, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Putman, Mrs. Ann Blake and Ed Lowinguth. After dinner, the party attended the Saturday evening dance at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Boykin will be hosts at a dinner party Saturday evening at the Piedmont Driving Club in honor of Misses Joyce Smith, Mary Hurt and Susan Hippey, a trio of popular debutantes.

A Skin Bleach That Is Also a Skin Beautifier

With increasing years, one's skin becomes stale, discolored and wrinkled, and loses its freshness. Due to sun, wind, air and dirt from without, and constant chemical changes from within, developing a coarser texture, large pores, blackheads, pimples, freckles and other surface spots. The only way these beauty-marring defects can be satisfactorily overcome, is with a basic skin treatment, such as Golden Peacock Bleach Creme. Golden Peacock Bleach Creme is a basic "cover-up" cosmetic, but a basic, penetrating skin treatment (the formula of one of the most able Cosmetic Chemists in the United States) that actually removes that coarse, scrubby skin, and begins where nature leaves off to form a new skin foundation: finer, softer, clearer, lighter and free of blackheads, spots, and pimples due to outward causes—and does it quickly. Barbara Bell Patterns

Barbara Bell Patterns, 1776-B, is a smart dress, buttoned down the front. One-piece frock of wool is worn with great chic this season. These frocks are very tailored and trim, like the model illustrated. Interesting seaming adds a lot to this sort of garment, and with them the simplest sort of fitting is obtained with very little effort. This dress has a panel in front and back, shaped to give an almost basque-like appearance to the blouse, and widened at the bottom of the skirt, where it is let loose, in pleats, which furnish enough fullness to make the skirt easy to walk in. This panel is buttoned to the waistline, if you like it better that way. The sleeves are plain, easy fitted, and good for the cold weather. This panel will no doubt wear. There is a very nice collar, which is fastened on each side of the blouse.

Friendly Counsel

An interviewer asked a popular opera and radio star why he wasn't married. He replied in substance that he wasn't in love and so far had been able to control his heart with his reason. He hadn't seen a lassie who appeared to him as having the attitude toward love and marriage necessary to make the sort of home he wanted. The girl he met were charming enough and could provide a delightful evening's entertainment but they were all so casual and cool about heart problems that he was afraid of them.

Successful, handsome, velvet-voiced, smooth-mannered, and with a good opera and screen ideal is looking for an old-fashioned girl who believes that love is something more than sex attraction, an old-fashioned girl who prefers the friends to the flicker, one who gladly gives up all men for one man, takes marriage as an all-time not a "sometime thing."

Many a sensible young man is just like him; taking his pleasure where he finds it but saving his proposal for a maid that has some of Mama's virtues.

There are plenty of girls with old-fashioned virtues to be found. Most of them have new-fangled ideas which mean they are not standing still where ma is stood. They are educated, mentally alert, just as skillful on the golf course as in the kitchen. They can run a sewing machine or a motor car with equal facility. They can tend their homes and have time on their hands for fun and frolic with their husbands.

Don't give up the search, boys, until you have found one of these, and don't be deceived by a streamlined model with a siren horn boasting of her speed and her good sportsmanship in meeting you half way in any proposition you make.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Remedy at Home

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a bad winter cough can be relieved, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive results. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a much better remedy. It never spoils and tastes fine. Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the phlegm, helps clear the air passages, and soothes the irritated membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in distressing coughs. Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its soothing action on the human system. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Stanford Coach Will Cut S. M. U. in Saturday's Game

What was the most expensive single penalty of the year? One on which there rode a loss of about $80,000? It was a poor penalty at that—just a five-yard penalty for offside. It cost about $16,000 per yard. And that is expensive real estate.

It meant the difference between some $80,000 and nothing at all; a modicum of fame and whole crate loads of it; an undefeated and untied season, and one marred by a defeat.

It happened on September 30.

L. S. U. was playing Rice.

And Rice was leading. Suddenly Reed got loose and ran 23 yards for a touchdown for L. S. U.

The head linesman ran out and tooted his horn.

The play was called back.

L. S. U. scored another later and was headed for a third when the game ended.

But the score was 10 to 7 against. Had that one touchdown not been called back, L. S. U. would have won by at least 13 to 10, and would have been undefeated and untied—and would have gone to the Rose Bowl, since the committee there wanted a team from east of the Mississippi river. The Rose Bowl "cut" for this year's teams will be about $80,000.

When one contemplates the number of decisions which officials miss—?

If this one was fumbled, it was a very expensive fumble. Just $16,000 per yard.

L. S. U., when Rice was played in the opener, had not discovered what Fatherree and Crass could do. They were trying to win with the ailing Abe Mickal.

Anyhow, that one penalty wins the season's prize as the most disastrous single penalty of the year.

IT WAS QUITE A SEASON.

It was quite a season, amigoes. I mean the one which has just been concluded.

Out on the coast, where Roy Riegels ran the wrong way in the Tech Rose Bowl game of 1929, a Santa Clara back kicked the ball over his own head to give the opposing team a chance at the touchdown which they went on to score and win the game.

Out at Norman, Okla., Bill Jones' Oklahoma eleven had an Indian halfback who threw a forward pass and caught it himself.

In the Dartmouth-Princeton game an unidentified spectator, believed to be a hamburger cook in an all-night lunch, climbed down out of the stands and leaped into the Dartmouth line trying to help stop the Princeton, whom he does not like. He has no alma mater. Each Saturday his alma mater is the team playing against Princeton.

Those were just a few of the unusual happenings.

AND SOME FREAK PLAYS.

There were a number of freak plays which helped decide important games.

The Georgia-Auburn game and the Vanderbilt-Alabama contest saw them.

In the Georgia-Auburn game at Columbus, Ga., the Georgia team punted. The ball was kicked low into the wind and it bounded in front of Billy Hitchcock, struck his leg and went sailing on over the goal line.

And there Henry Wagon fell on for a Georgia touchdown to give the Athens Bulldogs the lead. Auburn had to come from behind to win.

And last Thursday at Nashville, the Crimson Tide was trailing, 7 to 6, but still in the ball game with the Commodores, when Pete Curly curled the hair of the spectators by picking up a had fourth-down pass from center, running back 20 yards and kicking on the run.

The ball bounded in front of Joe Riley. He grabbed it at it, thought better of it and jerked back his arms, but the ball had struck him and bounded over the line.

A boy from Georgia named Lord Byron Beard fell on it for a Vanderbilt touchdown.

There were others. These two, so nearly alike and both coming in important games, stand out as the two most important freaks of the year.

A FEW NOMINATIONS FOR 1935.

The most daring play—L. S. U.'s variation of the old Statue of Liberty play on which Jess Fatherree ran 105 yards to score against Georgia.

The most valuable man to his team—Riley Smith, of Alabama.

The closest finish—Tennessee's touchdown in the last 45 seconds to beat Ole Miss.

Most surprising team—Major Ralph Sasse's Mississippi State Maroons. They beat Alabama and Army and lost to Ole Miss.

The best guard—Frank Johnson, of Georgia.

The greatest upset—Howard's 7-7 tie with Alabama.

The most improved player—Lawrence Hays, of Tech, as he played against Georgia.

The best sophomore back—Dutch Konemann, of Tech.

THOSE 1936 SCHEDULES.

The 1936 football schedules are interesting ones. I mean for our two Georgia teams, Tech and Georgia.

Georgia Tech exchanges Clemson for North Carolina. And with that one exception the schedule will remain the same.

There will be seven home games. The Georgia game goes back to Athens. Alabama comes to Grant field. Auburn and Kentucky will be among the home games.

For the second consecutive year no intersectional contest is on the card.

Georgia's schedule changes radically. Tennessee, Rice, L. S. U. and Fordham are four newcomers to the schedule of the Bulldogs. Alabama and Georgia do not meet in 1936. The Fordham game is scheduled for New York. L. S. U. will be played in Baton Rouge. Rice comes to Athens.

They are two fine schedules. That is to say, they are fine for the spectators. But not so good for the coaches who must take the yelps of outraged alumni when the team loses.

ONCE AGAIN THE MYSTERY.

Once again we have the annual football mystery entitled, "Where Do Nashville People Go on Saturday Afternoon?" Mr. Blinky Horn, the esteemed editor of sports for the Tennesseean, reports the Vanderbilt finances fade into the red for the 1935 season.

Despite the appearance of Ray Morrison and despite the victories scored over Tennessee and Alabama, the Morrison team drew only 44,729 spectators in six games as against 52,662 for the six home games of the 1934 season.

No one knows what the Nashville people do on Saturday afternoons, but for years it has been a well-established fact they do not attend football games.

GOING ISSUES LAST RATINGS OF BIG TEAMS

S. M. U., Princeton and Minnesota Placed as First Three.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—With a hall of fame of the most spectacular football seasons on record and a far well to this particular source of gridiron debate, here's our round-up ranking for 1935:

1. Southern Methodist, Princeton and Minnesota.
2. Stanford.
3. Ohio State.
4. North Carolina.
5. California.
6. Fordham.

This covers a wide enough spread to convince the most meticulous that top-ranking football is played in every section of the country. Obviously, the south, including Texas, has a sectional edge for the year when it comes to producing outstanding teams but the "top ten" includes two each from the east, the middle west and the far west.

NOTHING TO CHOOSE.

So far as this observer is concerned, there's nothing to choose among the three unbeaten and untied teams bracketed at the head of the list. Minnesota and Princeton finished as the class of the middle west and east. Each registered convincing victories over natural rivals in their final tests, with the Tigers rolling up 64 points against Dartmouth and Yale, and the Gophers amassing 73 points at the expense of Michigan and Wisconsin. Over a stretch of three straight years, Princeton has lost only one game while Minnesota has experienced no defeats and been tied four times, all in 1935.

Southern Methodist, the Rose Bowl choice, undoubtedly has the year's most remarkable record. Saturday's triumph over Texas Christian not only marked the eleventh consecutive victory for S. M. U., but was a tribute to the team's resourcefulness under the heaviest kind of pressure.

Strange things have happened this season, but it is hardly conceivable now that Southern Methodist, having landed the richest post-season prize, will fail to hurdle Texas A. & M. this Saturday to complete an unbeaten season as champions of the southwest. Stanford's invitation to a team that has not yet finished its regular season is unprecedented but popular all over the country. With Minnesota and Princeton definitely out of the post-season picture there remained no doubt of S. M. U.'s claim to preference.

Louisiana State's great finish clearly entitles the Bayou Tigers to a place among the nation's leading football teams. After dropping the opener to Rice, on a close decision, L. S. U. ran up nine consecutive victories. Bernie Moore's aggregation performed so convincingly over this stretch that it rates on a par with its Texas neighbors. The Tigers, for instance, doubled Minnesota's margin over Tulane and walloped all outstanding challengers for Southeastern conference honors.

ONE OFF-DAY.

The teams listed in the lower half of our "top ten" get the benefit of the doubt for having one off-day, being the victim of close decision. Stanford and Ohio State came close to enjoying unbeaten seasons. Each lost under extraordinary circumstances. Stanford to U. C. L. A., with Ted Key starring, and Ohio State to Notre Dame's inspired last-period rally.

North Carolina took a pasting from Duke 25 to 0, in one of the year's biggest farm reversals. The Tarheels cannot "throw this one out," as the saying goes, but they can point to a better record on the whole than that of Duke. Vanderbilt or Auburn. Most of these southern teams were either hot or cold, without much warning, but North Carolina, like L. S. U., had one off-day.

Duke lost to Auburn and Georgia Tech. Auburn lost to Tennessee and Louisiana State. Vanderbilt lost to Temple, Fordham and L. S. U. in succession. Notre Dame furnished a lost to Mississippi State and Vanderbilt, besides being tied by Howard. It is all very confusing.

BEARS STOPPED.

California won nine straight before cracking under Stanford's pressure, but the Bears undoubtedly belong among the nation's top leaders. Fordham, despite an early season shellacking from Purdue, finished impressively and gets the call as the east's second representative in the select list. Fordham beat Vanderbilt, tied Pittsburg and St. Mary's and lost to the University of New York. Previously unbeaten team. Holy Cross has a rebuttal in the form of an unbeaten record, but the Crusaders were tied by Manhattan and barely squeaked through to win some of their major engagements.

Among the other teams unranked, Army finished sensationally after two setbacks. Notre Dame furnished a lost to the year's greatest thrills, and Marquette had only one off-day to mar an otherwise brilliant campaign.

AUBURN-BAMA STILL SOUGHT FOR LATE TILT

Tide Balks, But Attorney and Legion Push Their Plans.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 2.—(AP) Horace Wilkinson, Birmingham attorney and chairman of a special American Legion committee, said today his group positively had not given up the hope of bringing about a renewal of football relations between the University of Alabama and Alabama Polytechnic Institute through a post-season game this year.

Wilkinson said he would confer with Governor Bibb Graves, a supporter of the proposed game, during the afternoon and leave for Tuscaloosa to confer personally tomorrow with Dr. George W. Denny, president of the university.

The statement from the Birmingham attorney followed an announcement by the Governor earlier in the day that he had authorized Wilkinson to speak in his behalf as well as in support of the Legion, which proposes to sponsor the game Christmas or New Year's day.

Wilkinson said he had been advised of a statement by Dr. James J. Foster, chairman of the faculty athletic committee at Alabama, stating that the committee and personally Wilkinson were opposed to a post-season game this year.

The Birmingham attorney, an Alabama alumnus, said the two colleges, which severed relations in 1906, ought to play each other, and expressed the "high wish" that relations could be renewed this year.

"I believe they are two of the most evenly matched teams in the south," said Wilkinson, "even though I'm an Alabama man. Both have a good defense and the breaks likely would decide the outcome. The crowd would fill any bowl in the south."

Unofficially, Auburn athletic officials have been reported as willing to renew the relations this year.

Boys' High Gets Four New Bids For Late Game

By Roy White.

Four new offers for post-season games were received Monday by R. L. Doyak, Boys' High athletic director and coach of the city, state and southern prep football championships.

The offers came from St. Louis, Mo.; Ashland, Ky.; New Trier, Ill. A previous offer had been received from Jacksonville, Fla., and numerous others have been talked about.

Ashland High, which defeated Deatur overhwhelmingly several years ago, is particularly anxious to have the Purples play a late December or January 1 game in Ashland. The Kentucky team has won nine straight games and have scored 369 points against only 2 for their opposition.

New Trier, with 11 straight wins and a team which averages close to 175 pounds, desires a game in Atlanta.

Details of the other offers were not made public.

Following the team's triumph Thursday night in the state championship, the players were given a 10-day holiday and should no post-season or charity game be arranged, the team will be disbanded.

City Council Honors Boys' High Eleven.

Boys' High undefeated southern championship football team was honored Monday afternoon at the regular meeting of the city council. It was the first time that the city's government heads have taken the honor of paying tribute to a high school eleven.

The resolution, offered by Councilman Raleigh Drennon, of the ninth ward, follows:

Whereas, the Boys' High school football team has won 24 out of the last 25 games it has played, and

Whereas, the fine record of clean sportsmanship has been extended to every one connected with the Boys' High school football team, to every member of the squad, to the coaches and to the student body,

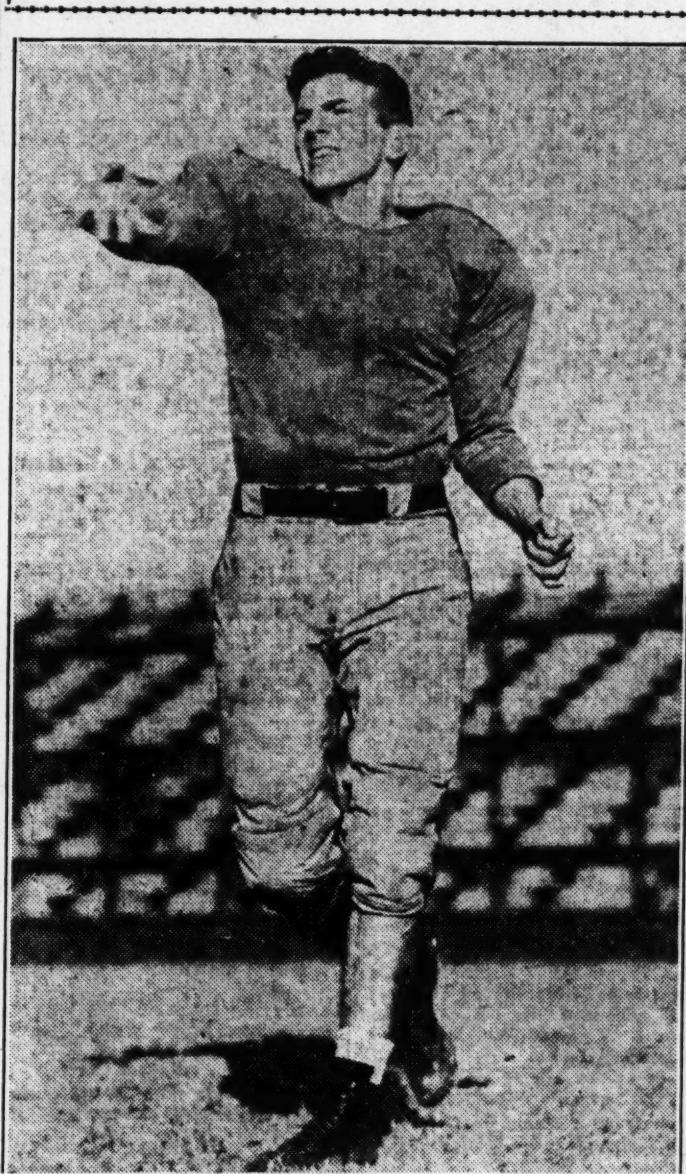

Be it further resolved that copies of these resolutions be furnished the press and that they be inscribed in the minutes of city council that all may know that we support the fine record of clean sportsmanship which this institution has made and that the spirit of the student body, in this exhibition of fine, budding manhood.

High School Star Dies in Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2.—(UP)—While his teammates whispered for him to "stay in there and fight," tow-headed Steve Sabath, said to be the greatest quarterback in East High school's history, lost a 45-hour battle for life today. It was his 18th birthday.

Steve's rambly body, which came whole through three years of football, was broken in an automobile crash Saturday night while the boy was en route to a combined celebration of the successful closing of his final high school football season and his impending birthday. He suffered broken legs, a broken back and a fractured skull.

Jackets' Backs Rate Konemann the Best

"Dutch" Given Call Over Davis, Fenton, Hitchcock, Parker and Other Foes.

By Jack Troy.

Georgia Tech backfield men have nominated as the best back they saw all year, a member of their own team. He is Marion (Dutch) Konemann, of Columbia, S. C.

It is probably the greatest compliment that could be paid a sophomore star.

The Jacket backs saw Bob Davis, of Kentucky; Jimmie Fenton and Billy Hitchcock, of Auburn; Jim Hutchins and Don Jackson, of North Carolina; Ace Parker, of Duke; Al Minor, Paul Causey and Bill Hartman, of Georgia; Billy Chase, of Florida, and Riley Smith and Joe Riley, of Alabama, and others.

But for the best running back and a player who showed the most improvement during the season, they will take Dutch Konemann against the field.

It is a pretty good indication of the spirit of camaraderie that existed among the Tech backs this year. As a rule, backfield men are rather jealous of the exploits of a teammate. Well, may be not as a rule, but in many instances anyway.

"Ole Coon" was not highly publicized. There was no high-pressure publicity in his behalf all year. But in the pinch, he always delivered. And, as other backs around the south state in sports, he to speak, "Ole Coon" Konemann kept driving ahead at a consistent pace.

When the season ended he stood out as the best newcomer. And, without a doubt, he was a team man. He ranks as a player's player.

And, as a matter of record, Tech has yet to call "time out" for Konemann. He showed plenty of stamina and the ability to take it.

Navy Grid Coaches Get Active Orders

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 2.—(AP)—While naval academy interest swung to winter sports today, assistant officer-coaches of the navy football team received active duty orders.

Lieutenant J. W. Byrge, varsity end coach, and Lieutenant C. W. Hughes, line coach of the "B" squad, were ordered to the naval air station at Norfolk, Va., for eventual duty aboard the cruiser Quincy, now under construction, as part of the transfers.

Commander John H. Brown Jr., director of football at the academy, said the coaching setup for next season will not be announced until about February.

The main match, scheduled for 90 minutes.

In addition to Williams, the card offers Leo Newman and Leo Savage, strangers to Atlanta's wrestling fans. Savage, who meets the Indian chief, Tom Marvin, in the one-hour bout, is something of a savage on the mat. Sam Carter, of St. Louis, will be Newman's opponent in the opening 50-minute match.

Fans are urged to buy tickets early because the theater arena has such a small seating capacity.

FORDHAM SEEN AS L. S. U.'S FOE IN SUGAR BOWL

Tigers Believed Certain Choice; Selections Due Tonight.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Louisiana State University and Fordham were considered tonight as probable opponents for the Sugar Bowl football classic here New Year's Day.

The selections will be announced at a meeting of the Mid-Winter Sports Association, promoters, Tuesday night. The announcement is withheld until both teams have accepted officially.

Louisiana State, champion of the Southeastern conference, and undefeated since it met the opening game to Rice, 7 to 10, was believed to be the certain choice of a southern team. Fordham was conceded the edge over Nebraska, Marquette and Holy Cross, all of which have strong supporters among local fans, in the selection of a "northern" team.

Fordham's selection would be based on its victory over unbeaten New York University on Thanksgiving Day. The Rams lost an early season game to Purdue, and were tied by St. Mary's and Pittsburgh.

S.M.U. Coach, Fired in '33, Hero Now

By Felix R. McKnight.

DALLAS, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Two years ago today was the last time that a favorite rendezvous of down-trodden football coaches—the "doghouse."

Today his hand was swollen from handslaps; his telephone bell had clanged for hours and congratulatory telegrams littered his desk.

Madison (Matty) Bell, one of the better known occupants of the 1933 "doghouse" at Port Worth, a couple of hours after his Mustangs had pranced to a 20-to-14 victory over a great Texas Christian University team, Bell smiled and remarked:

"We were awful lucky out there today. Either team could have won." Today, apprised of the news his team had been invited to the Rose Bowl, Bell smiled again.

He got his fingerprints on his falling star by signing as line coach at Southern Methodist under Head Coach Ray Morrison in 1934. Then Morrison left his famed "factual circus," went back to his alma mater, Vanderbilt, and Southern Methodist gambled on the man they picked up as a "free agent."

SIGNS CONTRACT.

They signed him to a three-year contract.

Matty firmly grabbed his star, mixed deceptive running plays with the aerial tricks Morton left behind, and today his rocket shoots toward a mythical national championship.

Just luck, says Matty. Saturday night at Port Worth, a couple of hours after his Mustangs had pranced to a 20-to-14 victory over a great Texas Christian University team, Bell smiled and remarked:

"We were awful lucky out there today. Either team could have won." Today, apprised of the news his team had been invited to the Rose Bowl, Bell smiled again.

GREAT HONOR.

"It's a great honor for my boys. You know those kids have worked for this all season. They have had it on their minds—and when a bunch of husky boys make up their minds, there really wasn't much for me to do about it."

What Bell, a remnant of the famous "Prayin' Colonel" of Centre College, didn't say was that he had built that spirit.

Three times in their undefeated season Bell has had his team inspired to the maximum. Against Rice Institute, University of California at Los Angeles and Texas Christian the Mustangs were phenomenally ready to whip their weight in wildcats.

At lunch, before the U. C. L. A. game, the old "Prayin' Colonel" said grace—prayed his boys would be genuine sportsmen; bring credit to their school, to the southwest. Not in victory—just as sportsmen.

They beat U. C. L. A. 21-0.

TINY THORNHILL INTENDS TO SEE MUSTANGS PASS

Matty Bell, Former Pupil of Cardinal Coach, at Center.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Stanford's bulky football coach, Claude E. "Tiny" Thornhill, personally will scout Southern Methodist University in hopes of making his team's third Rose Bowl venture a winning one.

Thornhill will be in the stands when Southern Methodist meets Texas A. & M. next Saturday.

"Gotta look those Mustangs over myself," the 238-pound Stanford mentor drawled today. "The way they throw the ball around may mean a change in our defensive play. There isn't a doubt in my mind about S. M. U. having a fine ball club."

Eight Stanford boys who as sophomores played against Columbia, will return to the Rose Bowl to establish a record for individual competition in the game when they include Bob Ryan, "Bones" Hamilton, halfbacks; Woody Adams, guard; Bob Reynolds, tackle; Wes Muller, center; regular ends Jim Moscrip and Keith Topping, and reserve end Alex Trompas. No other team has made more than two successive trips to the New Year's Day classic.

The encounter will pit teacher against pupil. Coach Madison Bell, of S. M. U., played center and utility backfield at Centre College when Thornhill was assistant coach at the Kentucky institution.

Rose Bowl Game Will Draw $9,000

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Printers' ink has yet to touch the pastedboard that will be Rose Bowl football tickets but the opinion prevails here today that Stanford and Southern Methodist will play to a paucity audience of $9,000 New Year's afternoon.

Never in the 20 years of rose tournament grid history was a selection so popularly accepted as Stanford's choice of the wild galloping Mustangs from Dallas.

It will not be the first time the garland bedecked bowl in the Arroyo Seco has been filled to overflowing, if it is, but no game ever prompted such early response.

Several reasons were given for the situation. Most important, perhaps, was the thorough manner in which Coach Matty Bell's team sold itself a few weeks ago when it beat the University of California at Los Angeles, co-holder of the Pacific Coast conference title, 21-0.

Southern California had never seen quite that sort of wild, ball-tossing football. The nearest approach was Alabama's demonstration against Stanford here a year ago, when 89,000 persons jammed into the Rose Bowl.

Rose Bowl's only other capacity crowd was in 1930 when 70,000 filled the stadium, before it was enlarged, to see California trounce Pittsburgh.

OLE MISS PILOT MAY QUIT POST

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Dec. 2.—(AP) Reports were heard on the University of Mississippi campus today that the university may lose Head Coach Ed Walker. The reports shadowed discussion of Walker's resignation.

Walker, a protégé of Pop Warner at Stanford, came to Mississippi as director of athletics and head football and basketball coach in 1930, after serving as assistant coach at Iowa State in 1927 and Stanford in 1928, and line coach at Columbia University in 1929.

The season just closed has been Walker's best. The Blue and White won nine games and lost two, and by only one point to Tennessee. Far from blessed with the best of the world met another stumbling block during the season.

Mundorff Seeks To Correct Three-Second Foul Area Rule

COACHES VIEW 'MISCONSTRUED' BY RULES BODY

'Whole Foul Area' Is Object of Jacket Coach's Attack.

By Jack Troy.

Coach Roy Mundorff, of Georgia Tech, today will give Uncle Sam's mail delivery service quite a bit of business, as he sends letters to all basketball coaches in the conference asking an agreement on a significant change in the rules.

It seems that at the national meeting of the basketball coaches last April in Chicago, the following change in the rules was recommended:

That a member of the offensive team, whether he had the ball or not, was ineligible to remain longer than three seconds in that part of the floor between the foul lines and the foul throwing circle; between foul throwing line and the foul line.

WHOLE FOUL AREA.

Well, the coaches were willing to have such a change made. So what was their surprise to pick up the new rule book and discover that the book read "the whole foul area," which includes the throwing line and the entire circle.

The coaches do not constitute a legislative body, of course. They simply recommend changes. The rules committee accepts the recommendations and then goes ahead and changes them as they see fit. This latest change has been construed by some coaches as merely being a justification of the rules body's existence. Or their quaint method of earning their pay.

Coach Mundorff does not think the rule will last more than one year. And he hopes that it will never see the light of day, at least, the kilowatt lights of evening in the Southeastern conference.

Hence his sally into the letter-writing field today. "What will probably happen," Mundorff said, "is that the various conferences will agree to play under the original plan."

TO CARRY FIGHT.

Coach Mundorff is going to carry his fight beyond letter writing; he plans to attend the Southeastern conference.

How Doctors Help Men Past 40

Many prominent physicians here and in Europe report excellent results from the use of a newly discovered hormone in cases of impaired vigor in men past 40. Best results seem to be obtained when this hormone is given during a period of time in small doses. Although not all cases respond to the hormone, its use has been so successful in so many that it is well worth trying.

The hormone is not available together with other valuable ingredients in Zeak Tablets (Blue Pack) for Men—Orange Pack for Women, which can be obtained from Dr. J. H. Zeak, 34 W. 45th St., N. Y. (adv.).

The Zeak formula is the formula of a distinguished American physician, who has written a booklet telling many interesting facts about the hormone. It is called "For Men Who Want to Live," a copy of which will be mailed free in plain envelope by Zeak Co., 34 W. 45th St., N. Y. (adv.).

Tennessee Offers Neyland Contract

Vols Cable Five-Year Terms, Believed To Call for Yearly Salary of $12,000.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(UP)—The University of Tennessee waited tonight for a reply from Major Bob Neyland, former head football coach, to an offer of $12,000 a year for five years to return as head mentor in 1936.

The University Athletic Council today cabled the offer to Neyland in the Panama Canal Zone, where he is stationed with the United States army. Terms of the offer were not officially announced, but it was understood the council had offered a five-year contract with an annual salary of $10,000 and $2,000 a year for expenses.

The former Tennessee mentor, who led the Vols into the national gridiron spotlight, has said he would accept $12,000 a year on a five-year basis, although he first asked $15,000 to resign from the army and devote himself to football.

No answer was expected for several days, but members of the board were confident Neyland would accept.

Neyland left Tennessee at the end of the 1934 season to return to regular army duty after he had coached several Vols teams that were contenders for national honors. His first assistant, Major Bill Britton, succeeded him this year, but the Vols were an in-and-out team and the cry went up for Neyland to return.

A bitter fight in the athletic board developed when the $15,000 salary demand was made, and only at the meeting today did the last of the members capitulate.

If Neyland accepts the offer and returns to Tennessee, it is likely Britton will remain as his assistant.

ference meeting and carry the fight onto the floor of that session.

The new rule as it stands would interfere with pivot play near the basket. Fact is, it would wreck pivot play in the foul circle.

Last year, for instance, Edwards, of Kentucky, was enabled to stand in the foul circle and pivot as long as he desired, finally getting a man open and passing to him. It was very effective.

Under the new rules, however, a pivot man would be forced beyond the foul circle and the effectiveness of pivot play would be lessened to a material extent.

Tech Basketeers Open Work Today.

Georgia Tech basketball players, who will play 16 games this year, eight on the road and eight at home, begin practice today at the new armory. Coach Mundorff, who has four players returning from last year's squad, will count largely on sophomores and juniors this year. The prospects are good.

Here's the squad:

(Centers)—Bo Johnston and Bill Jordan.

Forwards—Ben Jones, Burt Boulware, Ed Jones, Hank Crawford, Lawrence Hays, Roger Hackett and Dick Lively.

Guards—Fletcher Sims, Culver Kidd, Jim Ryan, Johnny Hyder, Dick Tierce and James Hancock.

Coach Mundorff's Gold and White cagers will open the season against the University of Florida five at Gainesville on January 4.

LOUIS EXPECTS TO GIVE BASQUE HIS FIRST KAYO

Brown Bomber Thinks He Can Stop Foe Before Third.

By Jack Cuddy.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Joe Louis made two man-sized predictions today: (1) He will jab Paulino Uzcudun "right out of his shell" when they tangle on December 13, and (2) if Joe and bride Marva have a son, "he'll be a fighter—or else."

The Brown Bomber was in his favorite position during the chat. He was stretched out, face downward, on a rubbing table—"restin' easy," while Trainer Jack Blackburn, a semi-bald dandy with razor tattooing on his face, dried him down with a big white towel.

Shuffle Joe had just finished his first hard workout in preparation for next week's battle with Paulino, the Basque biffer. He perspired freely after five fast rounds with four rugged sparring partners—all "shell" sluggers of the Uzcudun type.

The little dressing room, just off Dr. Bier's indoor gymnasium, was jammed with members of the Louis entourage, reporters and hangers-on. The room was warm and the air was heavy with cigar smoke and the pungent odor of rubbing oil. But Joe was "restin' easy" and chatting.

FINGERS CROSSED.

"Ah got mah fingers crossed to say that Paulino ain't no tougher'n Maxie Baer," said Joe. "Ah'll say—Maxie was the toughest guy to knock out I ever fought. Ah thought that man never was goin' down. Ah's shoah Ah won't have to drill on Paulino so hard and so long. Figure he'll go down before the third round."

"That's right, Paulino's never been knocked out—but neither was Maxie before Ah started pluggin' him."

No, Joe never had seen Paulino, but Trainer Blackburn—a great fighter himself in the old days—had seen the Spaniard in several bouts. Tough old geezer, all right, admitted Blackburn, but no man living is tough enough to stand up long before Louis.

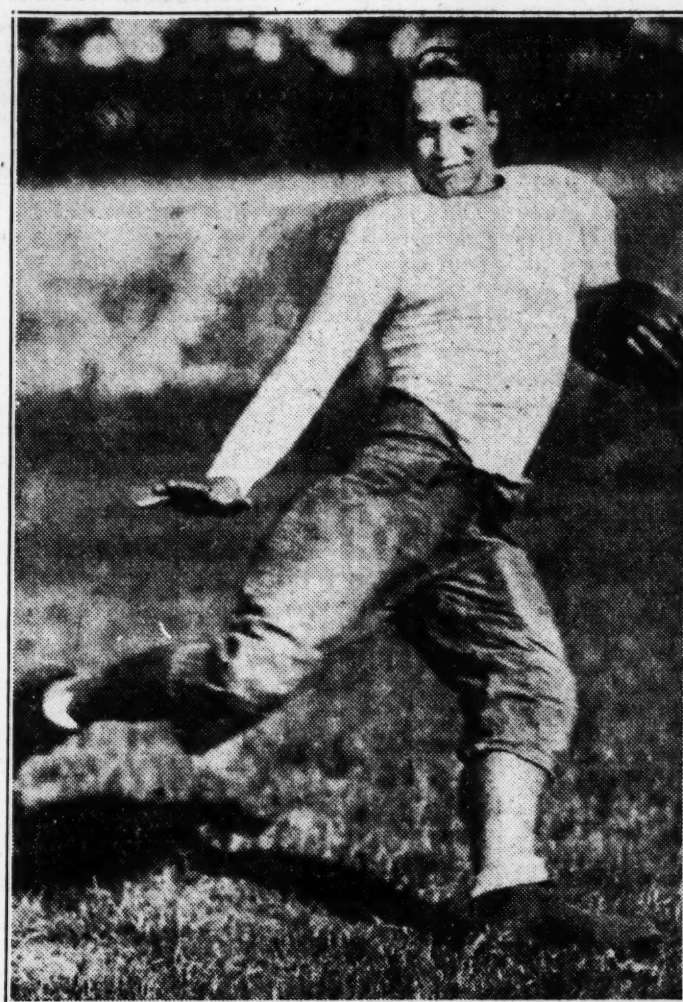

"Understand he fights out of a shell," continued Joe, "boobs and weaves with his head down behind his elbows. Ah'll just open him up like a clam. Jam his head right out from behind those elbows—and then put him away. Won't take long."

No, Joe wasn't afraid of hurting his hands on the Basque's elbows or head. Never had any hand trouble yet, "y' see Ah got good hands for a fighter. Knuckles line up straight. All knuckles take the shock evenly. Maybe that's the reason Ah don't hurt 'em."

CHANGED MAN.

Victories over Primo Cornera, King Levinsky and Maxie Baer, and the resultant glorification have wrought great changes in the erstwhile feard, panned, silent Joe. This new Joe Louis has confidence, poise, a ready smile, a plenteousness of conversation and a flood of ready wisecracks.

Tops Southeastern Scorers

Ray Hapes, galloping halfback of the University of Mississippi here, is the scoring champion of the Southeastern Conference for the 1935 season. His point total is 74, eight higher than his nearest competitor. Hapes dashed 80 yards against Mississippi State in the last game of the season for his 12th touchdown. He made three runs of 80 yards or more during the year. Associated Press photo.

Hapes, Ole Miss Half, Expert on Long Runs

By The Associated Press.

Mississippi's galloping Ray Hapes is the new individual scoring champion of the Southeastern conference.

The Ole Miss halfback clinched top honors Saturday by dashing 80 yards for his twelfth touchdown to finish with an eight-point margin over Kentucky's Bob Davis. Ray Hapes' sprint, his third touchdown run for 80 yards or more this year, helped his mates trim Mississippi State 14-6.

Mississippi's Rab Rodgers and Alabama's Miler Smith remained three-four, respectively, without bettering their totals. Seven newcomers advanced into the group with 24 points or more.

PETRELS DRILL FOR MIAMI TILT

Coach John Patrick put the Oglethorpe squad through their first workout yesterday since the Thanksgiving game with Mercer in preparation for the game with Miami University Friday night.

The squad of 20 players, two coaches and the manager will leave the Terminal station Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock. They will arrive in Miami Thursday afternoon. A workout will be held under the floodlights Thursday night.

Coach Patrick, in his drill yesterday, again stressed the down-field blocking on offense. This was sorely missed in the Mercer game. Backs got away all day for short runs, but without the co-operation of the team-mates, they couldn't turn those runs into points.

Vandy Will Elect Captain In Spring

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Vanderbilt University lettermen, meeting tonight before the alumni banquet, decided to wait until spring to elect a football captain for the 1936 season.

Those eligible to vote for the grid leader at that time will be returning lettermen.

The retiring captain is Willie Geny, red-headed, pass-catching end.

Letters were awarded 31 players, including:

Ends—Geny, Plasmann, Earl, Robbins.
Tackles—Thurmont, Claffey, Hampton, Ray, White.
Guards—Merlin, Noel, Hayes, Brown, Overly, Lucas.
Centers—Hinkle, Hall, Teasley.
Backs—Beard, Watson, Agee, Truitt, Smith, Dixon, Curley, Huggins, Carson, Oliver, Simpson, Crawford, Lacy.
Seventeen of the lettermen will be back for Ray Morrison's second year at Vanderbilt, while 14 having played their last game under Commodore colors.

Four-Square Beats Jonesboro Five, 28-27

The Four Square basketball team of Druid Hills Baptist church, defeated the Jonesboro A. C. at Jonesboro, Ga., 28 to 27.

Jim Bagby, Johnny Echols and Drennon, of Four Square, and Welch, Black and Kirkland, of Jonesboro, were outstanding.

Any out-of-town team with 75 miles of Atlanta desiring games with the Four Square team, write Carl E. Osteen, 906 St. Charles avenue, N. E., Atlanta.

YALE CAPTAIN.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Lawrence W. (Larry) Kelley, of Williamsport, Pa., brilliant end, was elected captain of Yale's 1936 football team today. Kelley, a junior, was the unanimous choice of 25 lettermen. He is a member of the baseball and basketball teams. Kelley is 20 years old and made the varsity eleven as a sophomore.

PREP QUINTETS OPEN PRACTICE IN LONG DRILLS

Boys' High, Tech High Squads Increased With Grid Stars.

Atlanta's prep athletes turned their attention and activities to basketball Monday afternoon when every team in the city began an intensive training period. The seasons will open early in January and with the Christmas holidays coming up soon, there will be no loafing during the practices.

Both the Boys' High and Tech High basketball squads were increased Monday afternoon with the addition of several candidates from the football teams.

G. M. A. Commercial, Marist, Fulton, Russell, Decatur and Drennon with larger groups of candidates than ever before have shown much progress in basketball. They are all about ready for some rough work, and G. M. A. already is seeking some practice games for Friday or Saturday nights on the College Park court.

The prep league schedule will open on January 14 and there will be two rounds, seven games each, before the annual tournament season opens late in February.

Coach Dave Johnston faces a difficult task at Boys' High. Roane Beard, Billy Mims, Paul Hickman and Billy Massengale will be ineligible after February 1 and they are the only leftovers from last year's squad. A pony backfield basketball team is being organized at Boys' High and the youngsters are seeking a schedule of games with some strong clubs in this vicinity.

The group of youngsters will include Billy Massengale, Billy Mims, Paul Hickman, Icky Orenstein, Flip Bond and Ben Ehrlich, provided, of course, Coach Johnston decided to build the team around newcomers.

Big Ten Referees Given More Power

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Referees will be given more authority in Big Ten basketball games during the coming season.

After a long discussion of the new pivot rule, wherein the pivot man is not allowed to remain within the free-throw lane for more than three seconds, conference basketball coaches and officials voted to leave the interpretation of the rule's finer points directly to the referee.

Miami Withdraws From Orange Bowl

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2.—(UP)—The University of Miami withdrew tonight as a possible combatant in the proposed Orange Bowl football game between northern and southern teams here New Year's Day.

Dr. B. F. Ashe, university president, advised W. Keith Phillips, head of the committee arranging for the contest, that the school definitely could not be considered as one of the eleven.

Phillips said Miami's action did not mean the Orange Bowl plans must be discarded. A number of combinations were still under consideration, he said. These included Vanderbilt-Villanova, Howard-Ohio University, Texas Christian-Villanova and "others."

VANDY GETS BID TO ORANGE BOWL

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Vanderbilt University has been invited to play in the annual post-season "Orange Bowl" football game New Year's Day in Miami, Fla., Athletic Director Dan E. McGugin announced tonight.

He said the team would make the trip as the southern representative if school authorities accepted the invitation. McGugin said acceptance of the bid rested with Chancellor J. H. Kirkland and other Vanderbilt officials. Vanderbilt concluded its regular schedule Thanksgiving Day with a 14-6 victory over Alabama, giving the Commodores runner-up honors in the Southeastern conference.

Light Drills Slated For Florida Varsity

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Facing their tenth and final football game of 1935, the Florida Varsity will take it rather easy this week, Coach Dutch Stanley said this morning.

Florida goes out of the conference Saturday to meet the University of South Carolina at Tampa.

Although two starting ends, Rickgett and Christian, and a starting guard, Lane, have been lost for the game, the "Gators" hope to gather together sufficient strength to handle the Gamecocks.

Florida will be after victory No. 3 for the season.

By FRANK MACILLLEN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—After shuffling around aimlessly most of the session, the stock market backed down in the late trading today to close with losses of fractions to 2 or more points. The volume was the smallest since October 18, at 1,565,380 shares. This compared with 2,190,500 shares on Friday.

Brokers said they found little in the news to account for the late decline. In many quarters, however, the selling was attributed to the desire of traders to renege on buying, following a long decision on sanctions against Italy on December 12.

In spite of the general sag, a few groups were in demand. The retail store estimates of the best retail business since 1929, buying came to the store shares. A few rails were likewise resistant with the aid of recently reported gains in October net operating income.

Messing & by the Associated Press average of 69 stocks the market was down 3 1/2 points to 122.7.

Although the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated current operations at the best level since June, a year ago, steel shares were soft.

Some explanation of the market in the light of the statement of the magazine Steel which said cancellations of orders might develop owing to the failure of finished steel prices to advance as expected.

One development noted in the financial district was the recent reported shrinkage of equity buying from abroad. Showing little buying, said to revive, the market would be without one element of support which has been considered important of late.

The foreign exchange market was quiet.

FUGITIVE IN MURDER IS SOUGHT IN NORTH

Atlanta Policeman's Assailant Also Wanted in Cole Killing; Escapes Trap.

Dwight Beard, 28, alias R. L. George, Atlanta bandit suspect, was believed by Atlanta detectives and Department of Justice agents to be headed north from Greenville, S. C., seriously wounded after he had shot his way out of a trap set by Greenville and Atlanta police in Greenville Sunday night.

Atlanta Detectives Leo Nahlik and J. J. Chester returned yesterday with two shot-riddled and bloody coats discarded by the fugitive after he had dashed through the police ring and made his escape along a railroad track. He later entered an auto further along the track and made good his escape, the officers say.

Death Fight Seen.
Police expressed the belief yesterday that Beard would fight it out to the death with officers if cornered. The belief was given strength when it was established that the desperado was carrying with him a "suicide" containing two tablets of deadly strychnine, which they believe he plans to take if he should be captured alive.

In the meantime, charges are piling up against the fugitive who has shot his way to freedom five times within a week. Detectives here charge him with the following crimes: The shooting of Patrolman I. P. Jones, a kidnapping, three holdups and three auto thefts here last week. The slaying of Claude E. Cole Sr., barking firm executive, at his home, 428 Copenhill avenue, N. E., in a robbery attempt November 8.

Thirty robberies and holdups in St. Paul, Minn. Escape from central prison, Burks county, N. C., where he was serving a life term for murder, and bigamy. He is believed to have married two young Georgia women in the space of three days.

Held Up Grocery.
Detectives claim Beard's series of crimes were staged in Atlanta last Wednesday, beginning with the holdup of a grocery store on West Peachtree street. Patrolman Jones was shot in the head by a bandit in the chase after the grocery holdup. The thus leaped a hedge and escaped across the Piedmont park golf course.

Cole was shot to death in his home where he attempted to grapple with a bandit who had entered the bedroom of his residence. The description of the killer given police by Mrs. Cole tallies in part with that of Beard, officers say.

In St. Paul, detectives say, Beard was known as the society bandit. There he was said to have gone by the name of Nichols. It is here that he associated himself with socially prominent people and then robbed them. It was his habit to rob his women victims of their money and all jewelry except their wedding rings, which he never took.

Officers say he is unusually brutal. His start in crime was made, they claim, in a holdup of a high school student and football player, whom he stole a hog and cut him from it without first killing the animal.

His sentence later was commuted to life imprisonment and he had served five months when he escaped last March.

O'Shields Released.
J. P. O'Shields, 25, of Windsor, Ga., was released yesterday by police following his arrest Sunday in a restaurant at Ponce de Leon and Argonne avenues on suspicion that he was Beard.

O'Shields was arrested after he had received a mysterious telephone call stating that George (Beard's alias) was in the restaurant. Police found that his fingerprints had been burned, apparently with acid. On his person they found $101 hidden in his shoes.

The condition of Patrolman I. P. Jones, Beard's victim, was said last night to be improved at Crawford W. Long's hospital.

Man Saved After Ten Days in Well; Boy Rescued From Refrigerator Car

Carolinan, 42, Dug Steps to 8 Feet of Top and Collapsed.

NORTH WILKESBORO, N. C., Dec. 2.—Muttering unintelligibly, Robert Dyson, 42, lay in a hospital here today as physicians sought to save him from the effects of a 10-day stay at the bottom of an abandoned well.

Revelation of how he spent those days, 25 feet below the surface in a lonely mountain spot, awaited his recovery, too weak to speak above a whisper today, there was no coherence to his discourse.

But rescuers pieced together at least a part of the story from evidence at the scene.

Dyson was brought up out of the well by a group of young men who, passing through the woods, were attracted to the old well at an abandoned sawmill site by the sniffing of their dogs.

The youths first believed the man lying at the bottom was dead, and called Sheriff W. B. Somers and Coroner I. M. Myers. When they arrived and the limp form was raised, life was found. Then it was found that Dyson had disappeared from home 10 days before. It appeared he had crashed through debris over the well.

With a pine stick which fell in with him he had cut steps part way up the dirt walls to within eight feet of the top. There, with life so near, he apparently became too weak to try further efforts, and dropped back to the floor.

Physicians said the man lost about 30 pounds during his imprisonment, but that they expected him to be well on the road to recovery within the next few days.

CHINA SEEKS TO HALT SECOND MANCHOUKUO

Nationalists Said Willing To Grant Wider Powers To North Officials.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The Chinese national government has decided to give North China virtual autonomy in a move to prevent creation of "another Manchoukuo," an authoritative source said tonight.

Administration of the northern provinces will be radically changed. Nanking, it was said, will grant wider governmental powers and sharply curtail the operation of its new monetary measures in the north.

The opinion was expressed in official Japanese quarters that the proposals have a good chance to succeed "if the autonomy movement has not gained too much momentum."

Japanese apparently were divided on the issue. Diplomatic and military officers were represented as favoring the Nanking program, but the army officers on the scene were reluctant to give up the plan for absolute autonomy.

In informed circles it was said the far-reaching new program concerning Lad, 14, Crosses Nation in Train; Cheats Shoes, Icy Cap.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2.—(AP)—A 14-year-old boy was rescued here today from the terror of 10 days' imprisonment without food or water in a dark, cold ice compartment of a railway refrigerator car as it rattled slowly across the continent from California.

So desperate was the plight of the young Golden-Bald of Motley, Minn.—that he chewed his wet cap and shoe top and ate seed from cotton locks.

He told his story at Union Memorial hospital under advisement of an application for a writ of habeas corpus.

A produce man found him semi-conscious after hearing moans coming from the ice compartment.

The lad had crawled into the compartment at Roseville or Tracy, Cal.—he couldn't remember which—November 22 to hobo back to his Minnesota home. He had run away on Labor Day to escape school.

Five other boys climbed in with him. He soon fell asleep and when he awoke they had left, taking all the supplies with them. The compartment was locked fast and it was cold and dark.

He screamed and hammered frantically against the walls but it was no use. He could attract no one.

There was no ice in the compartment but drippings from another forward kept it ice-cold. Glenn Med a string to a tobacco tin and tried to dip up water trickling through a gutter in the compartment but with little success.

He ate the seed out of the cotton locks he was taking home as souvenirs. He chewed his wet shoe tops and his cap but that did little good. Finally, he sank into a stupor.

He was found by a group of men who were hauling sheep and working on vegetable farms since he left home. He started back, he said, when he heard his father, George Bolian, was ill.

WINNETT GRAND JURY INDICTS THREE MEN

SPECIAL GRAND JURY OF WINNETT, Dec. 2.—A special grand jury of Winnetit superior court convened here this morning to consider several cases and true bills were returned against three men.

One of the indictments was returned against a man named Virgil Med a string to a tobacco tin and tried to dip up water trickling through a gutter in the compartment but with little success.
